

TNGEpisodes

Ralf Schwate

COLLABORATORS

	TITLE : TNGEpisodes
ACTION	NAME	DATE	SIGNATURE
WRITTEN BY	Ralf Schwate	April 18, 2022

REVISION HISTORY

NUMBER	DATE	DESCRIPTION	NAME

Contents

1	TNGEpisodes	1
1.1	TNGEpisodes.guide . . . . .	1
1.2	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/List . . . . .	1
1.3	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Encounter at Farpoint . . . . .	7
1.4	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Naked Now . . . . .	8
1.5	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Code of Honor . . . . .	8
1.6	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Last Outpost . . . . .	8
1.7	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Where No One Has Gone Before . . . . .	8
1.8	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Lonely Among Us . . . . .	9
1.9	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Justice . . . . .	9
1.10	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Battle . . . . .	9
1.11	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Hide and Q . . . . .	9
1.12	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Haven . . . . .	9
1.13	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Big Goodbye . . . . .	10
1.14	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Data Lore . . . . .	10
1.15	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Angel One . . . . .	10
1.16	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/11001001 . . . . .	10
1.17	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Too Short A Season . . . . .	10
1.18	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/When The Bough Breaks . . . . .	11
1.19	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Home Soil . . . . .	11
1.20	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Coming of Age . . . . .	11
1.21	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Heart of Glory . . . . .	11
1.22	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Arsenal of Freedom . . . . .	11
1.23	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Symbiosis . . . . .	12
1.24	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Skin of Evil . . . . .	12
1.25	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/We'll Always Have Paris . . . . .	12
1.26	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Conspiracy . . . . .	12
1.27	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Neutral Zone . . . . .	13
1.28	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Child . . . . .	13
1.29	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Where the Silence Has Lease . . . . .	13

---

1.30	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Elementary, Dear Data . . . . .	13
1.31	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Outrageous Okona . . . . .	13
1.32	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Loud as a Whisper . . . . .	14
1.33	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Schizoid Man . . . . .	14
1.34	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Unnatural Selection . . . . .	14
1.35	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/A Matter of Honor . . . . .	14
1.36	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Measure of a Man . . . . .	15
1.37	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Dauphin . . . . .	15
1.38	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Contagion . . . . .	15
1.39	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Royale . . . . .	15
1.40	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Time Squared . . . . .	15
1.41	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Icarus Factor . . . . .	16
1.42	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Pen Pals . . . . .	16
1.43	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Q Who? . . . . .	16
1.44	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Samaritan Snare . . . . .	16
1.45	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Up the Long Ladder . . . . .	16
1.46	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Man Hunt . . . . .	16
1.47	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Emissary . . . . .	17
1.48	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Peak Performance . . . . .	17
1.49	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Shades of Grey . . . . .	17
1.50	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Evolution . . . . .	17
1.51	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Ensigns of Command . . . . .	18
1.52	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Survivors . . . . .	18
1.53	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Who Watches the Watchers . . . . .	18
1.54	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Bonding . . . . .	18
1.55	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Booby Trap . . . . .	18
1.56	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Enemy . . . . .	19
1.57	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Price . . . . .	19
1.58	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Vengeance Factor . . . . .	19
1.59	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Defector . . . . .	19
1.60	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Hunted . . . . .	19
1.61	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Yesterday's Enterprise . . . . .	20
1.62	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Offspring . . . . .	20
1.63	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Allegiance . . . . .	20
1.64	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Captain's Holiday . . . . .	20
1.65	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Tin Man . . . . .	21
1.66	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Hollow Pursuits . . . . .	21
1.67	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Most Toys . . . . .	21
1.68	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Sarek . . . . .	21

---

---

1.69	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Menage a Troi . . . . .	22
1.70	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Transfigurations . . . . .	22
1.71	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Best of Both Worlds, Part I . . . . .	22
1.72	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Best of Both Worlds, Part II . . . . .	23
1.73	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Family . . . . .	23
1.74	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Brothers . . . . .	23
1.75	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Suddenly Human . . . . .	24
1.76	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Remember Me . . . . .	24
1.77	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Legacy . . . . .	24
1.78	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Reunion . . . . .	24
1.79	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Future Imperfect . . . . .	25
1.80	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Final Mission . . . . .	25
1.81	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Loss . . . . .	25
1.82	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Data's Day . . . . .	25
1.83	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Wounded . . . . .	26
1.84	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Devil's Due . . . . .	26
1.85	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Clues . . . . .	26
1.86	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/First Contact . . . . .	26
1.87	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Galaxy's Child . . . . .	27
1.88	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Night Terrors . . . . .	27
1.89	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Identity Crisis . . . . .	27
1.90	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Nth Degree . . . . .	27
1.91	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Qpid . . . . .	27
1.92	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Drumhead . . . . .	28
1.93	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Half a Life . . . . .	28
1.94	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Host . . . . .	28
1.95	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Mind's Eye . . . . .	28
1.96	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/In Theory . . . . .	29
1.97	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Redemption, Part I . . . . .	29
1.98	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Redemption, Part II . . . . .	29
1.99	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Darmok . . . . .	30
1.100	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Ensign Ro . . . . .	30
1.101	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Silicon Avatar . . . . .	31
1.102	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Disaster . . . . .	31
1.103	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Game . . . . .	31
1.104	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Unification, Part I . . . . .	32
1.105	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Unification, Part II . . . . .	32
1.106	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/A Matter of Time . . . . .	32
1.107	STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/New Ground . . . . .	33

---

---

1.108STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Hero Worship . . . . .	33
1.109STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Violations . . . . .	33
1.110STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Masterpiece Society . . . . .	34
1.111STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Conundrum . . . . .	34
1.112STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Power Play . . . . .	34
1.113STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Ethics . . . . .	35
1.114STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Outcast . . . . .	35
1.115STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Cause and Effect . . . . .	35
1.116STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The First Duty . . . . .	36
1.117STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Cost of Living . . . . .	37
1.118STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Perfect Mate . . . . .	37
1.119STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Imaginary Fried . . . . .	38
1.120STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/I, Borg . . . . .	38
1.121STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Next Phase . . . . .	38
1.122STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Inner Light . . . . .	38
1.123STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Time's Arrow, Part I . . . . .	39
1.124STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Time's Arrow, Part II . . . . .	40
1.125STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Realm of Fear . . . . .	40
1.126STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Man of the People . . . . .	40
1.127STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Relics . . . . .	41
1.128STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Schisms . . . . .	41
1.129STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/True Q . . . . .	41
1.130STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Rascals . . . . .	42
1.131STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/A Fistful of Datas . . . . .	42
1.132STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Quality of Life . . . . .	42
1.133STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Chain of Command, Part I . . . . .	43
1.134STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Chain of Command, Part II . . . . .	43
1.135STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Ship in a Bottle . . . . .	44
1.136STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Aquiél . . . . .	44
1.137STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Face of the Enemy . . . . .	44
1.138STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Tapestry . . . . .	45
1.139STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Birthright, Part I . . . . .	45
1.140STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Birthright, Part II . . . . .	45
1.141STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Starship Mine . . . . .	46
1.142STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Lessons . . . . .	46
1.143STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Chase . . . . .	46
1.144STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Frame of Mind . . . . .	47
1.145STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Suspicious . . . . .	47
1.146STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Rightful Heir . . . . .	47

---

---

1.147STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Second Chances . . . . .	48
1.148STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Timescape . . . . .	48
1.149STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Descent, Part I . . . . .	48
1.150STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Descent, Part II . . . . .	49
1.151STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Liasions . . . . .	49
1.152STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Interface . . . . .	49
1.153STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Gambit, Part I . . . . .	50
1.154STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Gambit, Part II . . . . .	50
1.155STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Phantasms . . . . .	51
1.156STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Dark Page . . . . .	51
1.157STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Attached . . . . .	51
1.158STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Force of Nature . . . . .	52
1.159STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Inheritance . . . . .	52
1.160STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Parallels . . . . .	52
1.161STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Pegasus . . . . .	52
1.162STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Homeward . . . . .	53
1.163STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Sub Rosa . . . . .	53
1.164STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Lower Decks . . . . .	53
1.165STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Thine Own Self . . . . .	54
1.166STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Masks . . . . .	54
1.167STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Eye of the Beholder . . . . .	54
1.168STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Genesis . . . . .	55
1.169STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Journey's End . . . . .	55
1.170STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Firstborn . . . . .	55
1.171STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Bloodlines . . . . .	55
1.172STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Emergence . . . . .	56
1.173STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Preemptive Strike . . . . .	56
1.174STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/All Good Things... . . . .	56

---

Chapter 1

TNGEpisodes

1.1 TNGEpisodes.guide

TNGEpisodes.guide

Episodes

  Main

back to Main Node of STCCG

1.2 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/List

  First Season:

    Encounter at Farpoint

    The Naked Now

    Code of Honor

    The Last Outpost

    Where no One has Gone before

    Lonely Among Us

    Justice

    The Battle

    Hide and Q

    Haven

    The Big Good-Bye

    Data Lore

---

Angel One

11001001

Too Short A Season

When The Bough Breaks

Home Soil

Coming of Age

Heart of Glory

The Arsenal of Freedom

Symbiosis

Skin of Evil

We'll Always Have Paris

Conspiracy

The Neutral Zone

Second Season:

The Child

Where the Silence Has Lease

Elementary, Dear Data

The Outrageous Okona

Loud as a Whisper

The Schizoid Man

Unnatural Selection

A Matter of Honor

The Measure of a Man

The Dauphin

Contagion

The Royale

Time Squared

The Icarus Factor

---

Pen Pals

Q Who?

Samaritan Snare

Up the Long Ladder

Man Hunt

The Emissary

Peak Performance

Shades of Grey

Third Season:

Evolution

The Ensigns of Command

The Survivors

Who Watches the Watcher

The Bonding

Booby Trap

The Enemy

The Price

The Vengeance Factor

The Defector

The Hunted

The High Ground

Deja Q

A Matter of Perspective

Yesterday's Enterprise

The Offspring

The Sins of the Father

Allegiance

Captain's Holiday

Tin Man

Hollow Pursuits

The Most Toys

---

Sarek

Menage a Troi

Transfigurations

The Best of Both Worlds, Part I
Fourth Season:

The Best of Both Worlds, Part II

Family

Brothers

Suddenly Human

Remember Me

Legacy

Reunion

Future Imperfect

The Final Mission

The Loss

Data's Day

The Wounded

Devil's Due

Clues

First Contact

Galaxy's Child

Night Terrors

Identity Crisis

The Nth Degree

Opid

The Drumhead

Half a Life

The Host

---

The Mind's Eye

In Theory

Redemption, Part I
Fifth Season:

Redemption, Part II

Darmok

Ensign Ro

Silicon Avatar

Disaster

The Game

Unification, Part I

Unification, Part II

A Matter of Time

New Ground

Hero Worship

Violations

The Masterpiece Society

Conundrum

Power Play

Ethics

The Outcast

Cause and Effect

The First Duty

Cost of Living

The Perfect Mate

Imaginary Fried

I, Borg

The Next Phase

The Inner Light

---

Time's Arrow, Part I
Sixth Season:

Time's Arrow, Part II

Realm of Fear

Man of the People

Relics

Schisms

True Q

Rascals

A Fistful of Datas

The Quality of Life

Chain of Command, Part I

Chain of Command, Part II

Ship in a Bottle

Aquiel

Face of the Enemy

Tapestry

Birthright, Part I

Birthright, Part II

Starship Mine

Lessons

The Chase

Frame of Mind

Suspicious

Rightful Heir

Second Chances

Timescape

Descent, Part I
Seventh Season:

---

---

Descent, Part II

Liasions

Interface

Gambit, Part I

Gambit, Part II

Phantasms

Dark Page

Attached

The Force of Nature

Inheritance

Parallels

The Pegasus

Homeward

Sub Rosa

Lower Decks

Thine Own Self

Masks

Eye of the Beholder

Genesis

Journey's End

Firstborn

Bloodlines

Emergence

Preemptive Strike

All Good Things...

1.3 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Encounter at Farpoint

---

The new USS Enterprise, en route to pick up its final crew members and investigate a mysterious space station, is confronted by a goodlike entity known as Q who puts Picard, Counselor Troi, Data and security chief Yar on trial for the crimes of all humanity in the past, a challenge Picard grudgingly agrees to meet.

The crew must solve the mystery of Farpoint station observed by Q.

Admiral McCoy
Tasha Yar
U.S.S. Enterprise
U.S.S. Hood

1.4 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Naked Now

An Away Team, after visiting a ship whose crew apparently committed mass suicide, unwittingly brings a virus aboard the Enterprise - infecting the crew with a madness that puts the thought of their duties well out of mind - while a nearby star collapses, hurling a chunk of stellar material straight toward the Enterprise.

1.5 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Code of Honor

Picard must bargain with a primitive culture for the antidote to a plague which is wreaking havoc on a Federation world but is unprepared to deal with what seems like terrorism when the leader of the aliens kidnaps Tasha and refuses to give her or the vaccine up.

1.6 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Last Outpost

As the Enterprise pursues a Ferengi vessel, both ships fall under the control of an energy draining field - emanating from an ancient outpost of the Tkon Empire. During a joint away mission with the Ferengi to the planet, Riker passes a test given by the outpost's "portal" and arranges the safe release of both ships.

Blade of Tkon

1.7 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Where No One Has Gone Before

A warp drive adjustment - supervised by Starfleet propulsion expert Kosinski but actually implemented by a being called the Traveller - takes the Enterprise to a dimension where thought becomes reality. Realizing the dangers, the Traveller expends his remaining reserves of energy to return the ship to Federation space before fading into another plane of existence.

Alternate Universe Door

---

1.8 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Lonely Among Us

The crew of the Enterprise is faced with more threats than they realize while transporting two parties of rival alien races to a peace summit which they seem to busy trying to kill each other to prepare for, but the greater danger lies in a consciousness which, after being swept into the sensor arrays of the ship, is trying to escape the ship to return to its home. In its final attempt, it beams off the Enterprise, taking Picard with it.

1.9 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Justice

When Wesley unknowingly breaks a law of the Edo – a peaceful race living on Rubicon III – Picard must choose between violating the prime Directive and allowing the boy to endure the only punishment prescribed by Edo tradition: Death.

Edo Vessel

1.10 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Battle

The normally greed-driven DaiMon Bok of the Ferengi suddenly becomes beneficent and returns a salvaged piece of Starfleet equipment – Picard's last command, the U.S.S. Stargazer. Unknown to the crew of the Enterprise, the ship is part of a plan by Bok to seek revenge on Picard for the death of his son in the Battle of Maxia.

Thought Maker
U.S.S. Stargazer

1.11 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Hide and Q

Having evaluated their recent contact with humanity the Q continuum sends Q back to the Enterprise to try to entice Riker into joining them. Although Q offers Riker immortality and almost limitless power, the first officer refuses, preferring to live with those he trusts.

Q's Tent

1.12 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Haven

When a plague ship approaches the beautiful planet of Haven, Picard traps it in a tractor beam to prevent the Tarellians from spreading the disease they carry to the inhabitants below. Surprisingly the Tarellians have actually come for Wyatt Miller a young doctor who has experienced a mysterious connection with a young Tarellian woman since his childhood. Wyatt Miller is accompanied by Lwaxana Troi, Deanna Troi's mother, because he is the intended spouse for Deanna.

---

Betazoid Gift Box
Mr. Homn

1.13 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Big Goodbye

After completing a grueling preparation for contact with the protocol-sensitive Jarada, Picard joins Crusher, Data and fiction expert Whalen for a relaxing holodeck adventure based on Dixon Hill - a fictional detective of the 1940s. Unfortunately a sensor probe from the Jarade damages the holodeck and endangers their lives.

Dixon Hill's Business Card

1.14 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Data Lore

On Omicron Theta an away team finds a complete set of parts for an android. After reassembly the android introduces himself as Lore, Data's brother. Barely in time, Data and Wesley discover Lore's evil intent to feed the crew to a malevolent creature called the crystalline entity.

1.15 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Angel One

Beaming down to the planet Angel One to recover the crew of the disabled freighter Odin, Riker and an away team discover that the men do not wish to leave, even though their lives are in danger because their presence is upsetting the heavily matriarchal culture.

1.16 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/11001001

The Enterprise, while docked at a Starbase for minor refits, is hijacked by the Bynars, whose home star has gone nova, rendering their computerized planet inoperative. They have stored the contents of their race's memory in the ship's computer in the hopes that Riker and Picard - being stalled in the holodeck by the beautiful woman of Riker's dreams - can reactivate their home.

Minuette

1.17 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Too Short A Season

Facing the potential of repeating a mistake made forty years ago when he traded arms for hostages and thereby plunged Mordan IV into civil war, Admiral Mark Jameson gives himself a massive dose of a de-aging drug to restore his youth prior to beginning hostage negotiations yet again on the war-torn planet.

1.18 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/When The Bough Breaks

After the once-believed-mythical planet of Aldea decloacks in front of the Enterprise, it's leaders ask for the unthinkable. No longer able to procreate - due to the depletion of the ozone layer of their planet by their pervasive technology - the Aldeans offer to purchase children in exchange for their advanced scientific knowledge.

1.19 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Home Soil

Unwittingly, a terraforming team on Velara III begins killing the crystal life forms indigenous to the planet. In short order a detachment of the crystals not only declares war on the team but extends the battle to the Enterprise as well.

1.20 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Coming of Age

Wesley is faced with a challenging test of his intelligence as he auditions to be a Starfleet cadet, but he does not realize, that the psychological exam he is to receive is the more grueling barrier. Aboard the Enterprise, the Captain is investigated by a pair of Starfleet officers who seem to have one thing on their minds: finding some fault in Picard's logs with which to begin a court-martial to take him out of the command chair, suspecting Picard is part of a conspiracy within the ranks of Starfleet.

Mordock
T'Shanik

1.21 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Heart of Glory

The rescue of a trio of Klingons from a severely damaged freighter turns dangerous when the crew discovers the group is wanted by the Klingon empire. The warriors soon escape from the brig and one of them ends up in Main Engineering with a weapon pointed at the warpcore.

1.22 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Arsenal of Freedom

An Away Team consisting of Riker, Data and Yar runs headlong into danger when Riker is put in suspended animation by an intelligent robot weapon which proved to be too powerful for its creators - and it looks as if it may eliminate the away team, joined by Picard and Dr. Crusher, while its counterpart attacks the Enterprise, where Geordi fears his experience may not be enough to help the crew survive.

Paul Rice

1.23 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Symbiosis

Rescuing two Omarans, two Brekkians and several containers of Felicium from a distressed freighter, the crew of the Enterprise soon discovers the unique relationship between the two races. For two hundred years the Brekkians have supplied the Ornarans with Felicium - supposedly to stave off the effects of a deadly plague. In fact Felicium is a highly addictive drug and the Brekkians know it.

1.24 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Skin of Evil

The Enterprise rushes to rescue a shuttlecraft carrying Troi, and the Away Team discovers that Armus, an evil entity, is preventing them from saving Troi and the shuttle pilot. To make sure that its point is clear, Armus kills Tasha Yar and torments Troi and the rest of the crew.

Armus - Skin of Evil

Armus - Sticky Situation

1.25 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/We'll Always Have Paris

Picard and the crew investigate the source of distortions in time that are being felt across the galaxy and discover the ailing temporal scientist Dr. Manheim's experiments have malfunctioned, sending his consciousness into an alternate dimension and leaving his body to die in Dr. Crusher's sick bay, while his wife turns out to be the girl Picard left behind to join Starfleet.

Jenice Manheim

Manheim's Dimensional Doorway

Paul Manheim

1.26 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Conspiracy

Picard is taken into the confidence of his good friend Captain Walker Keel, who warns that Starfleet is slowly being taken over by a conspiracy that plans to use the resources of Starfleet for conquest. After the shocking destruction of Keel's ship and a series of grisly discoveries about the High Admirals of Starfleet, Picard learns that Earth is the home of the queen of an alien swarm...

Bluegill Queen

1.27 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Neutral Zone

Data, curious about three cryogenically frozen earth people from the 20th century found in a derelict preservation satellite, brings them back to the ship and Dr. Crusher revives them. Meanwhile, Picard and Riker must be prepared to negotiate or fight as the Romulans return to the borders of the neutral zone - and the 20th century visitors only complicate matters.

Cryosatellite

1.28 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Child

As the Enterprise flies to Odet IX to pick up plasma plague samples a small energy being enters the ship. When it finds a sleeping Troi, she becomes pregnant, and the child's rapid growth causes uneasiness among the crew - more so after discovering that the boy emits Eichner radiation, which causes a plague specimen to grow, threatening the lives of everyone aboard.

Katherine Pulaski

1.29 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Where the Silence Has Lease

After an area of blackness swallows the ship the being who lives within, named Nagilum, subjects the crew to series of laboratory experiments. Faced with the prospect of watching Nagilum kill one-third to one-half of his crew merely to investigate death, Picard opts to set the ship's autodestruct, after which the being releases them.

1.30 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Elementary, Dear Data

When Dr. Pulaski challenges Data to solve a mystery in true Holmesian fashion, LaForges makes the mistake of asking the computer to fashion an adversary that can defeat the android. The computer honors the chief engineer's request by creating a sentient superintelligent Moriarty.

1.31 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Outrageous Okona

A nonchalant space rogue is welcomed aboard the Enterprise by Picard and the crew, but the pleasantries of his visit are cut short by two representatives of rival worlds demanding Okona's life for crimes he claims not to have committed - yet he does know who the guilty parties are and it's up to him to unite the aggressors.

1.32 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Loud as a Whisper

Disaster strikes after the Enterprise transports peace negotiator Riva and his "chorus" - trio of translators who function in telepathic concert with their profoundly deaf leader - to war-torn Solari V. A dissenter in the movement for peace murders Riva's chorus, leaving the negotiator completely isolated until he determines to turn this disadvantage into an advantage.

Riva

1.33 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Schizoid Man

Refusing to accept the death of his intellect, Dr. Ira Graves transfers his consciousness into Data before his physical body ceases to function. Then a series of accidents, caused by Grave's undisciplined emotions finding release in Data's superior strength, convinces the scientist to vacate the android's body.

Dr. Selar
Ira Graves
Karreen Brianon

1.34 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Unnatural Selection

An experiment in genetic engineering runs awry when the enhanced immune system of the "children" accidentally create an agent that causes accelerated aging in normal humans. Just in time, the crew concocts a plan to use the transporter to sample each affected person's DNA and restore them to normal.

1.35 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/A Matter of Honor

When Kargan - captain of the Klingon vessel Pagh - comes to believe that the Enterprise is responsible for "infecting" his ship with a hull-consuming parasite and vows revenge, Riker - on board the Pagh as part of an officer exchange program - assumes command by using an emergency transponder to fool the crew of the Enterprise into beaming Kargan onto Picard's bridge.

Dukath
Mendon

---

1.36 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Measure of a Man

When Data refuses to participate in a Starfleet scientist's android experiment where he will serve not only as a blueprint but as a guinea pig and spare part supply, he is put on trial and Picard wrangles with the premise that Data is not a free agent but the property of Starfleet - and Captain Louvois assigns Riker to prosecute.

1.37 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Dauphin

Wesley falls in love when the Enterprise transports a young lady named Salia and her overprotective guardian named Anya to Daled IV, where Salia will assume the planet's leadership. Picard soon discovers that both of the women are actually shapeshifters with advanced capabilities and realizes that Anya's absolute determination that no harm come to Salia could endanger the ship.

Gibson

1.38 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Contagion

With his ship increasingly debilitated by a sophisticated computer virus, Picard takes the Enterprise into the Neutral Zone to uncover the virus's source - the home planet of the fabled Iconians, a long dead race that reportedly possessed incredible technologies. Barely in time LaForge discovers a way to remove the virus before it destroys the ship.

Iconian Gateway
U.S.S. Yamato

1.39 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Royale

Orbiting the completely inhospitable planet Thate VIII, the crew finds wreckage from an ancient Earth craft and discovers an even stranger anachronism below on the surface - a perfect simulation of the events in the pulp novel Hotel Royal. Curiosity turns to worry when an away team discovers that they are trapped in a fantasy taken from the novel's pages.

Mickey D.

1.40 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Time Squared

When the crew rescues a drifting shuttle, they discover its pilot is an incoherent Jean-Luc Picard from six hours in the future. Ominously, the shuttle's logs show the destruction of the Enterprise by an energy vortex. A short time later, when the energy vortex does appear Picard flies the ship to safety by taking the opposite actions of his future counterpart.

1.41 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Icarus Factor

After Starfleet offers Riker a command, the first officer must undergo a briefing by his estranged father, Kyle Riker. At first William Riker will have nothing to do with his dad, but after they hit each other with sticks for a while, they kiss;-) and make up.

1.42 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Pen Pals

Data makes unauthorized contact with a little girl named Sarjenka, who lives on Drema IV. Disturbed that Sarjenka's planet is being torn apart by volcanic eruptions, Data convinces Picard to intervene and save her world by using harmonic vibrations to shatter the planet's naturally aligned dilithium crystals.

1.43 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Q Who?

After Picard states that the Enterprise is ready to meet any challenges that might come its way, Q transports them seven thousand light years for their first encounter with the Borg. The captain soon realizes that the Enterprise is hopelessly outmatched and pleads for Q's further assistance.

Sonya Gomez

1.44 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Samaritan Snare

As Picard undergoes an operation to replace his faulty cybergenetic heart, Riker and the Enterprise respond to the distress call from a Pakled vessel. Too late, the first officer discovers that the Pakled plea for help is merely a ruse to kidnap LaForge in an attempt to extort technology from the Enterprise.

Make Us Go

1.45 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Up the Long Ladder

Seeking to solve two problems at once, Picard proposes a "marriage" between the Bringloldi - Irish descendants of Earth who had established a back to nature settlement on a planet threatened by stellar flares - and a colony of clones in desperate need of fresh DNA on Mariposa.

1.46 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Man Hunt

The Enterprise crew welcomes some fishlike Antedian delegates to a peace summit and, on short notice, Troi's bothersome mother. Mrs. Troi, now in a phase of increased sexual activity, has come to the Enterprise to "visit" Picard, which meets with disapproval from Counselor Troi and amusement from Riker - while the captain hides in the holodeck generated world of Dixon Hill once more.

1.47 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Emissary

Worf's former girlfriend K'Ehleyr joins the Enterprise to assist in a crisis involving the Klingon Empire. A group of warriors, dispatched seventy-five years ago in a sleeper-ship, will soon awake, lacking any knowledge of the current peace treaty between the Federation and the Klingon Empire. The Enterprise must stop them before they go on a rampage and destroy the defenseless colonies in the region.

K'Ehleyr

1.48 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Peak Performance

The Enterprise undertakes Federation-mandated wargames, as Zaccorn tactical observer Sirna Kolrami observes and, more often, pesters the crew. Picard is pitted against Riker in a maneuver that is harmless until a Ferengi attack puts the crew of the Enterprise and the Hathaway, Riker's vessel in a no-win situation - which Riker has the key to.

Sirna Kolrami

1.49 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Shades of Grey

When a plant jabs Riker in the leg during a preliminary geological survey on an unexplored planet, Pulaski finds that stimulating the first officer's bad memories slows the growth of the infection, making the microbes pack up their bags and leave.

1.50 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Evolution

As a critical time frame approaches - when the crew of the Enterprise must have the main computer to assist in a once-in-a-lifetime experiment monitoring an eruption from the surface of a neutron star - Wesley Crusher's science project goes awry releasing tiny robots called nanites, which soon start feasting on the computer's memory chips.

1.51 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Ensigns of Command

Data must convince a group of settlers to leave a world deeded by treaty to the Sheliak Corporate - an ill tempered, condescending, nonhumanoid race - before the Sheliak colonization vessels arrive and clear the planet of its "humanoid infestation". At the same time, Picard struggles to find a way within the bounds of the agreement to forestall the destruction and evacuate the humans.

1.52 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Survivors

Picard uncovers the truth about the two survivors of a Husnock attack on Delta Rana IV, Kevin and Rishon Uxbridge. In fact only Kevin Uxbridge still lives. He is a Douwd, a powerful being who reached out in grief and struck down all Husnock everywhere before attempting to recapture the memories of his wife by recreating her image.

Husnock Ship

1.53 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Who Watches the Watchers

A rescue and repair operation for a group of anthropologists conducting a covert study of an indigenous race on Mintaka III inadvertently convinces an extended family of Mintakakans that Picard is an "overseer" or good. With great effort, Picard eventually persuades the Mintakans that the members of the crew of the Enterprise, though more advanced, are simply humanoids as well.

1.54 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Bonding

When Jeremy Aster's mother dies on an away team mission lead by Worf, the Klingon determines to bond with the young boy and make him part of his family. Unfortunately the energy beings that live on the planet feel a similar responsibility and soon manufacture a duplicate of Marla Aster to entice Jeremy down to the surface.

1.55 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Booby Trap

An ancient Promellian battle cruiser lures the Enterprise into a booby trap - an asteroid field filled with energy draining acetone assimilators placed there by the Promellians' archenemies, the Menthars, over a millenium ago. Working with a holographics construct of engine designer Dr. Leah Brahms, LaForge concocts a plan to allow the Enterprise to break free.

Dr. Leah Brahms

---

1.56 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Enemy

After becoming separated from an away team, LaForge finds himself captured by a Romulan on the surface of Galorndon Core, an inhospitable planet buffeted by severe electromagnetic storms. Realizing the impact of the storms on their bodies, LaForge and the Romulan work together to alert the Enterprise to their location.

1.57 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Price

When "hired gun" negotiator Devioni Ral sweeps Troi of her feet, she soon learns his secret. Ral is partially empathic, and he uses his abilities to gain the upper hand as he parleys a deal. With Ral currently pitted against the Federation in an attempt to gain the rights to the Barzan wormhole, Troi must decide where her loyalties lay.

Devioni Ral

1.58 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Vengeance Factor

Yuta - an Acamarian female and member of the clan Tralesta - boards the Enterprise with her sovereign Marouk to complete her ancient rite of vengeance. While the sovereign attempts to negotiate a peace treaty with a group of rogue Acamarians known as Gatherers, Yuta uses the opportunity to hunt down members of the Lornka clan and infect them with a genetically engineered microvirus.

Marouk

1.59 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Defector

Believing that the Romulan Empire is massing for war, Admiral Jarok defects and alerts Picard to a secret base on Nelvana III, a planet in the Neutral Zone, that is within striking distance of fifteen Federation sectors. After violating the Neutral Zone to investigate, Picard discovers that the Romulans have fed Jarok false informations to test his loyalties, and then lay a trap for the Enterprise.

1.60 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Hunted

After apprehending an escaped criminal for the authorities on the planet Agosia III, the crew of the Enterprise discovers that Roga Danar isn't a prisoner at all - merely a mentally and physically enhanced soldier the Angosians are unwilling to retrain.

Roga Danar

---

1.61 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Yesterday's Enterprise

While the Enterprise-C assists a Klingon outpost in defending against a surprise attack by Romulans, a fierce volley of photon torpedoes throws it more than two decades into the future, creating an alternate timeline - a timeline in which the Federation fights a losing battle with the Klingons. The Enterprise-D finds the Enterprise-C and Guinan convinces Picard to send the ship back. The captain knows that to do so is suicide but also that the sacrifice may lead to peace with the Klingons.

Rachel Garret
Richard Castillo
Tasha Yar - Alternate
U.S.S. Enterprise-C

1.62 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Offspring

Data is inspired by a cybernetics conference he has attended and, after spending extensive off-duty time in his lab, announces that he has created Lal, an android "daughter" - which does not please the captain at first, but when Starfleet Admiral Haftell arrives with the intention of taking Lal off the Enterprise, Data's child experiences an irreversible malfunction: emotion!

Data
Lal
Soong-type Android

1.63 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Allegiance

Aliens kidnap Picard and replace him with a doppelgaenger. They intent to explore the concept of authority and loyalty frst on the Enterprise by judging the reactons of the crew to this fake captain and second by placing the real captain in a cell with individuals who represent other approaches to dealing with authority.

Kova Tholl

1.64 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Captain's Holiday

A vacation on the pleasure planet Risa turns to intrigue when a woman named Wash involves Picard in a hunt for the Tox Uthat - a weapon supposedly hidden in the twenty-fourth-century by its timetravelling inventor.

Ajur
Boratus
Horga'hn
Tox Uthat
Wash

---

1.65 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Tin Man

The Enterprise ferries an extraordinary telepath named Tam Elbrun to a first encounter with an unusual, recently discovered organic, living spacecraft - designated Tin Man. Despite efforts by the Romulans to stop the Enterprise, Elbrun makes contact and soon disappears into the stars with Tin Man, having decided to serve as its companion and crew.

Gomtuu
Tam Elbrun

1.66 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Hollow Pursuits

Engineering Lieutenant Reginald Barclay, a new member of Geordi's staff, shirks his duties in favor of spending time on the holodeck, where he has constructed intricate programs simulating members of the bridge crew as he sees them, Picard, Data and Geordi as the Three Musketeers, Dr. Crusher as a sort of fair maiden with Wesley as an asininen blueberry pie-eating Blue Boy - and Counselor Troi as a seductive goddess. When the real crew learns of Barclay's holo-addiction, all hell breaks loose.

Reginald Barclay

1.67 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Most Toys

Data is kidnapped by a greedy collector of one-of-a-kind items and species, who considers the android a prize for his collection and fools the crew of the Enterprise into thinking that Data has been killed in a freak shuttle accident. Data then squares off in a grueling psychological battle with his captor and almost tastes vengeance for the first time when a woman, who attempts to help Data escape, is killed in cold blood by the unscrupulous hoarder.

1962 Roger Maris Baseball Trading Card
Kivas Fajo
Kivas Fajo - Collector
Mona Lisa
Persistence of Memory
Varon-T Disruptor
Zibalian Transport

1.68 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Sarek

As the Enterprise transports the renowned Ambassador Sarek to an important meeting with the Legarans, Crusher and Troi uncover a disturbing fact: The Vulcan suffers from Bendii syndrome - a breaking down of emotional control in extreme old age. Knowing that Sarek cannot negotiate in his debilitated condition, Picard suggest a mindmeld. The joining allows the Vulcan to complete his final diplomatic mission.

Sakkath
Sarek

1.69 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Menage a Troi

DaiMon Tog of the Ferengi falls madly in love with Lwaxana Troi, swearing to have her at all cost. When Lwaxana refuses his affections, Tog kidnaps not only her but the vacationing Riker and Deanna Troi as well. Skillfully Riker soon escapes from the Ferengi vessel's brig and manages to send a message to the Enterprise.

Dr. Farek

1.70 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Transfigurations

Crusher's efforts to save the life of an unidentified humanoid male that the crew names John Doe places the Enterprise in the middle of a civil conflict. Doe's race, the Zalkonians, teeters on the verge of a new energy-only existence, but the Zalkonian authorities have determined to destroy anyone exhibiting signs of the change. The crew's involvement allows Doe enough time to complete his transformations and offer his new level of living to his people.

Zalkonian Vessel
John Doe

1.71 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Best of Both Worlds, Part I

Lt. Commander Shelby, a tactical advisor from Starfleet with her eye on promotion to a first officer – perhaps of the Enterprise – joins the crew as they investigate the latest planet victimized by the Borg. After another Federation planet is attacked, the Enterprise sets off in pursuit of the Borg. During the flight, Riker learns of Shelby's impetuosity and the possibility that he himself is long overdue to command a starship of his own. The Borg intercepts the Enterprise and does critical damage and the Enterprise enters a nebula to evade capture. When some repairs are made, the Enterprise tries to escape but is captured by the Borg. They board the Enterprise, kidnap Captain Picard, and warp toward Earth. The Enterprise follows the Borg through Federation space until Geordi can't keep the warp engines up to speed. Shelby leads an away team to the Borg vessel where she, Worf, Data and Dr. Crusher sabotage the Borg's internal power network. They are attacked and hold off their attackers until the Borg adapt to generate their own shields against the crew's hand phasers. And Captain Picard is found – no longer human, but modified into a Borg. The away team returns to the Enterprise, leaving Riker with a momentous decision – he must use a variation of the Enterprise's deflectors to disrupt the Borg and possibly kill Picard.

Deanna Troi
Jean-Luc Picard

---

Shelby
Wesley Crusher
William T. Riker

1.72 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Best of Both Worlds, Part II

The main deflector dish has no effect on the Borg because, having assimilated Picard and converted him into their spokesman, Locutus, the Borg know now every strategy and contingency that Picard had been informed of before his kidnapping. Riker is promoted to Captain by Admiral Hanson, who then leads a fleet of 40 starships to Wolf 359 to confront the Borg, but the fleet's efforts are in vain - every starship is annihilated. Riker orders a cunning attack consisting of awkward strategies that Picard would never have carried out or expected, and an away team kidnaps Locutus and returns him to the Enterprise. Data then links up to Locutus to access the Borg communication network, but every approach he takes to disarm the Borg down fails until the Borg arrive at Earth to begin their domination of the Federation. Data triggers the Borg regeneration process, putting every Borg to "sleep", but this also triggers the self-destruction of the Borg ship. Picard is freed from the Borg, Shelby returns to Starfleet to rebuild the fleet, and Riker remains on the Enterprise to continue serving as first officer. However, staring out the window of his ready room, Picard's face indicated that all is not well...

Locutus

1.73 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Family

Needing to decompress from the violation he experienced at the hands of the Borg, Picard visits his brother in his hometown in France. Meanwhile Worf's parents visit him on the Enterprise - attempting to learn more about his discommendation. Wesley watches a long forgotten recording that his father made shortly after his birth.

1.74 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Brothers

While rushing a young boy to a Starbase medical facility after his older brother played a cruel practical joke on him, the Enterprise is suddenly diverted from her course and headed for an unknown, out-of-the-way planet. What no one realizes until it's too late, is that Data is responsible for this, having been taken over by a homing signal that leads him to his creator, Dr. Soong, who had been thought dead for many years. Data has been called home to be given an upgrade - emotions - but the unexpected arrival of his jealous android "brother" Lore at Soong's hiding place puts Data's upgrade and his creator in jeopardy.

Dr. Soong

---

1.75 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Suddenly Human

Finding a Talarian training vessel in deep space, the Enterprise discover that one of the ship's crew is actually a human teenager. Dr. Crusher's examinations reveal that he has been injured in the past as well - and it's likely that these came about on purpose. When the boy's Talarian foster father appears to reclaim him, Picard is left with a choice - either return the boy to a society whose people may have abused him, or face the possibility of starting a war.

1.76 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Remember Me

Dr. Crusher's old friend, Dr. Dalen Quaique, is leaving his former home on a Starbase to retire after the recent death of his wife. He mentions his slowly deteriorating memory, a thought which remains on Dr. Crusher's mind when she visits engineering to watch Wesley finish a warp field experiment. But when the Enterprise becomes ready to leave the starbase, Wesley hastily finishes his experiment and his mother completely disappears. She, however, is on the Enterprise - so she thinks - and she helplessly watches the entire crew disappear one by one. She is, in fact, inside a warp bubble, and the real crew on the real Enterprise must enlist the help of the mysterious alien known as the Traveller to pull Dr. Crusher back into reality before her warp bubble shrinks into nothingness.

1.77 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Legacy

Rushing into dangerous territory on Turkana III, a planet whose government once warned that any Federation personnel would die if they visited there again, the Enterprise is looking for an escape pod containing two men, who left a critically damaged vessel. The pod has landed on Turkana III, requiring an away team to visit. They find two "cadres" - urban gangs so large they have replaced the government and now conduct their street fighting on a warlike scale. One of the cadres is willing to help find the Federation shipwreck survivors. The Enterprise's liaison to the cadre is the younger sister of the late Tasha Yar, and no one knows whether or not to trust her.

Ishara Yar

1.78 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Reunion

The Enterprise is intercepted in deep space by a Klingon battlecruiser occupied by K'mpec, leader of the High Council of the Klingon Empire. With him is K'Ehleyr, Worf's former lover, who has visited the Enterprise before. This time she acts as Picard's aide in a role K'mpec has chosen for him - the neutral arbiter to oversee the handover of the dying K'mpec's powerful position to one of two contenders: Duras, whose cover-up of his father's actions cost Worf his honor; or Gowron, a Klingon "outsider" about whom little is known. But sabotage, including the assassination of K'mpec, begins to point toward evidence of Romulan involvement... and Worf must deal with the possibility that his son (by K'Ehleyr) may lose his honor if Worf reveals his relationship to him.

Duras

1.79 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Future Imperfect

While investigating suspicious energy readings on Alpha Onias III - a planet that would be ideal for a secret Romulan base - Riker, Geordi and Worf are overcome by toxic gases. Geordi and Worf, however, are rescued via transporter, while the Enterprise loses all traces of Riker. Riker awakens in the sick bay of the Enterprise, told by an older Dr. Crusher that sixteen years have passed since that event, and that a virus he contracted on the mission to Alpha Onias III recently became active, causing him to lose all memory back to that event. He is now the ship's Captain, Data is First Officer, and Picard - now an Admiral - is completing the final arrangements for the signing of a peace treaty between the Romulans and the Federation, and Riker has a teenage son as well. But glaring mistakes soon point out to Riker that this scenario is not, in fact, happening, and that it's all a nearly perfect simulation. But the question remains - who's behind it, the Romulans... or someone else?

Admiral Picard
Commander Data
Commander Troi

1.80 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Final Mission

Knowing that Wesley will soon leave for Starfleet Academy, Picard takes him along for a set of negotiations with a group of miners. Unfortunately, the shuttle that the miners send for Picard malfunctions and crashes on an inhospitable moon. When Picard becomes injured, Wesley must use the limited available resources to save the captain's life along with his on.

1.81 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Loss

When a colony of two-dimensional beings unintentionally traps the Enterprise, their collective consciousness overpowers Troi, effectly blinding her empathic sense. As Troi struggles with her loss, the ship faces a greater peril: The creatures are dragging the ship towards a cosmic string - an entity with the gravitational forces of a black hole.

1.82 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Data's Day

As part of his attempt to keep Bruce Maddox supplied with research information, Data makes a record of an entire day for later transmission to the cyberneticist. During this day, Miles O'Brien and Keiko Ishikawa wed, and the crew discovers that Vulcan ambassador T'Pol is actually a Romulan spy.

Keiko O'Brien

1.83 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Wounded

O'Briens former captain acts on his suspicions that Cardassians are massing weaponry despite a recent peace agreement and illegally destroys a Cardassian research station. While believing Maxwell's suspicions may be correct, Picard must stop the rogue captain before he plunges the Federation into war.

Benjamin Maxwell
U.S.S. Phoenix

1.84 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Devil's Due

A beautiful con artist poses as Ardra - Ventax II's version of the devil - to reap the benefits of a one-thousand-year contract that is nearing its conclusion. Supposedly the inhabitants of the planet sold their souls to Ardra in exchange for a millenium of peace. Picard challenges the contract in Ventaxian court, with the agreement that if he loses he will belong to Ardra as well.

Fek'lhr

1.85 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Clues

When the Enterprise discovers their home planet, a powerful race of isolationists called Paxans allows Picard and his crew to leave unharmed with one provision: The Paxans will erase all memories of the incident from the humanoid minds on the ship, and Picard will order Data to hide their existence. Unfortunately little clues begin cropping up that contradict Data's fabricated version of the missing time.

McKnight

1.86 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/First Contact

When Riker is captured on Malcor III - a planet on the verge of achieving warp capability and therefore a candidate for "first contact" - Picard meets with the Malcorian president and negotiates the first officer's release. Unfortunately the president also asks Picard to have the Federation leave them alone.

Mirasta Yale

---

1.87 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Galaxy's Child

LaForge's anticipation turns to dismay when the real Dr. Leah Brahms visits the Enterprise. In addition to being married, the woman is very defensive about the modifications LaForge has made to "her" system. In the end, the two become friends after working together to solve a crisis in which a large space baby suckles energy from the Enterprise.

Leah Brahms
Rager

1.88 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Night Terrors

When the Enterprise becomes trapped in a Tyken's rift, Dr. Crusher finds that no one can enter REM sleep except Troi, who experiences only nightmares. Soon she and Troi deduce that an alien vessel lies trapped on the other side of the rift and its crew telepathic calls for help are preventing the Enterprises' crew from dreaming. Working in concert, the two ships generate a powerful explosion that allows them both to break free.

U.S.S. Brittain
U.S.S. Miranda

1.89 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Identity Crisis

Lt. Cmdr. Leitjen joins the Enterprise in a search for three missing starfleet officers. Oddly enough, she, LaForge and the three officers investigated the disappearance of a colony on Tarchannen III five years ago. The investigation soon uncovers that each was infected with a parasite that alters its host's DNA in order to reproduce.

DNA Metamorphosis

1.90 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Nth Degree

When a Cytherian probe flashes Barclay, his IQ jumps dramatically. Under a compulsion he doesn't understand, Barclay hooks himself into the computer and commandeers the ship. Then he distorts nearby space to take the Enterprise to the center of the Galaxy to meet with the probe's creator.

Geordi LaForge
Linda Larson

1.91 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Qpid

Q decides to repay Picard's recent kindness by showing the captain that the emotion he feels for Vash is dangerous. To do so, Q creates a fantasy in which he casts Picard as Robin Hood, Vash as Maid Marion, and the rest of the senior staff as Robin Hood's merry men. Of course Vash is imprisoned and will be executed if Picard cannot effect a rescue.

1.92 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Drumhead

When an investigation turns up a Klingon spy for Romulans on board the Enterprise, Starfleet send retired Admiral Norah Satie to hold further hearings. Unfortunately, Satie's proceedings soon take on the air of an inquisition enveloping even Picard in a cloud of suspicion.

Norah Satie
Simon Tarses
U.S.S. Oberth

1.93 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Half a Life

Kaelon II scientist Dr. Timicin joins the Enterprise to perform a test on the revitalization of a star. Kaelon II's star nears death, and Timicin has made it his life's work to find a way to reenergize it. Unfortunately the test fails and Timicin - who will soon reach sixty - must return home to end his life voluntarily, as dictated by his race's culture.

Timicin

1.94 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Host

Dr. Crusher find love with a Trill ambassador named Oda, on board the Enterprise to mediate a dispute between the two inhabited moons of Peliar Zel. When a shuttle accident reveals that Oda is actually a "symbiont", who lives within a humanoid host, Riker volunteers his body until a new Trill host can arrive.

Kareel Oda

1.95 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Mind's Eye

En route to an artificial intelligence conference on Risa, Geordi, alone in a shuttlepod, is kidnapped by Romulans, who send a "copy" of him to Risa. Under the supervision of a female Romulan who remains in shadows at all times, Geordi is tortured and brainwashed to obey, without question, instructions transmitted on a certain wavelength to his VISOR. When he returns to the Enterprise - with "memories" of his trip implanted into his mind - Picard deals with belligerent Klingon colony governor who accuses the Federation of assisting a rebel political faction. In fact, however, there is another

Klingon responsible for this, and he is relaying Romulan instructions to Geordi, who may unwittingly become an assassin....

1.96 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/In Theory

As the Enterprise investigates an M-class planet within a dark nebula, a romance blooms between Data and Lieutenant Jeanna D'Sora. A series of odd and sporadic incidents soon awakens the crew to the dangers of the nebula and they barely escape with the ship intact. Unfortunately, D'Sora quickly discovers that she cannot sustain herself with Data's nonemotional nature and soon breaks the relationship.

Jeanna D'Sora

1.97 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Redemption, Part I

The Enterprise is summoned to the Klingon homeworld so Picard may fulfill his final duty as arbiter of the succession of power there. Gowron intercepts the Enterprise before it arrives, warning Picard that Klingon civil war is brewing. Gowron, about to take control of the empire, is challenged by Lursa and B'Etor, the sisters of Duras, who offer his son Toral as an alternative candidate for the throne. Picard, attempting to remain completely neutral in order to avoid accusations that the Federation is taking a hand in Klingon politics, denies Toral's challenge. Those, who would follow the family of Duras, attack Gowron's ship as he and Worf discuss the redemption of Worf's family honor. Worf's brother, Kurn, who now leads four squadrons of Klingon ships, saves Gowron from the attackers, but the victory is only temporary. With the revelation that Kurn is also a member of Worf's family, Gowron returns Worf's honor to him. Gowron then requests Federation assistance from Picard, who refuses, citing the recent attack as strictly internal Klingon matters to be dealt with only by the empire, without Federation interference. Worf requests a leave of absence to stay temporarily on Gowron's ship. When Picard denies permission to do this, Worf resigns from Starfleet and leaves anyway. After Worf departs, the Enterprise leaves the Klingon homeworld to avoid any further involvement. But on the Klingon planet, in the quarters of Lursa and B'Etor, a Romulan officer in the shadows steps forth and predicts that Picard may return because "humans have a way of showing up when you least expect them". And this is very true, for the word come from a woman who bears a very strong resemblance to Tasha Yar... in Romulan uniform.

B'Etor
Fleet Admiral Shanti
Gorath
Sisters of Duras

1.98 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Redemption, Part II

War erupts between the forces of Gowron and those of the family of Duras. The forces of Duras are winning even after Gowron's fleet destroy all of their possible supply bases. Picard plans to take starships to the Romulan/Klingon border to act as a blockade against Romulan aid to the Duras followers. Various Enterprise officers are assigned to other ships, most notably Data as captain of the starship Sutherland, whose first officer, Hobson, objects to serving under an android commander. Commander Sela, half-human, half-Romulan daughter of Tasha Yar, demands that the Federation leave the border. Guinan reveals that Sela is the product of the Tasha Yar who was sent to the Enterprise-C by Picard. Gowron launches a surprise attack on their enemies. Lursa and B'Etor send a plea for aid. Sela tries to slip past the Sutherland, but Data foils the plan and the Romulans are revealed and forced to retreat, leaving Lursa and B'Etor helpless. They escape and abandon Toral, leaving him to Gowron. Gowron offers Worf a chance to slay Toral, but Worf chooses not to judge Toral by his father's actions and rejoins the crew of the Enterprise. As later noted when they unexpectedly arrive at Deep Space Nine, the Duras sisters are listed by the Klingon government as renegades, but still remain at large with at least one ship of their own, trying to raise capital for a second grab at the throne of the Klingon Empire.

---

Christopher Hobson
U.S.S. Sutherland

1.99 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Darmok

The Enterprise and a Tamarian ship rendezvous at El-Adrel IV and Tamarian Captain Dathon opens communications. The Tamarians speak incomprehensibly, using English words laced with names from their culture. After the contact fails, Dathon and his first officer argue over Dathon's statement, "Darmok and Jelad at Tenagra". Dathon vanishes and Picard is kidnapped via transporter. Both are beamed to the planet, where Dathon attempts to communicate again. Picard deciphers the language, finding that it is based on Tamarian folklore and metaphors. "Darmok and Jelad at Tenagra" refers to two heroes who traveled separately to a distant island, defeated a mighty beast, and left together. El-Adrel is home to such a creature, and Dathon hopes that the Tamarians and the Federation can begin a friendship by likewise defeating a common enemy. When the beast attacks, Picard is immobilized by an attempt to rescue him through interference projected from the Tamarian ship, while Dathon is mortally wounded. Picard can now negotiate in the Tamarian language - if he survives the creature's next attack.

Darmok
Dathon
Tama

1.100 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Ensign Ro

Admiral Kennelly assigns the Enterprise to help resolve tensions with the Bajorans, an isolated, once-advanced race whose territory was long ago taken by the Cardassians. Since then, the Bajorans have carried out terrorist attacks on the Cardassians, and now, according to Kennelly, the Bajorans have travelled outside their own system and attacked a Federation outpost. The Enterprise is to contact the Bajoran terrorist leader Orta and offer serious discussions after years of sympathetic talk and no action. Ensign Ro Laren, herself a Bajoran - recently court-martialed but pulled out of prison by Kennelly - is assigned to the Enterprise. Ro is an abrasive officer who does not want to be on the ship or the mission. She does, however, tell Picard to contact Keeve, leader of a Bajroan colony that has no technology and isn't even able to adequately feed or cloth its own people. On another planet, Picard contacts Orta - after being abducted by Orta's guards - and discovers that the Bajorans do not have the resources to attack anything beyond their own system. Ro then reveals to Picard that Kennelly is aware of this, and that she and the Enterprise are being used by the Cardassians to quietly get rid of the Bajoran "threat" by escorting them straight into the Cardassians's line of fire.

Mot the Barber
Ro Laren

1.101 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Silicon Avatar

Riker, Crusher and Data visit a new colony site when the Crystalline Entity that wiped out all life on Data's homeworld appears unexpectedly and attacks, forcing the colonists and visitors underground. The Enterprise returns and finds that the planet has been left barren. The colonists are rescued, and the crew, joined by Dr. Marr, investigates the damage. Marr, whose son was killed by the Entity long ago, believes that Data is not responsible for the attack and finds that his memories of his home include memories of the colonists who died there. She asks him to recite some of her son's diary and decides she must avenge her son, but Picard wishes to try to communicate with the entity.

1.102 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Disaster

On a routine day, Picard takes the three winners of the ship's school science fair on a tour. Beverly pesters Geordi, who is checking fuel tanks in a shuttlebay, to audition for a play; Riker, Data, Worf and a pregnant Keiko relax in Ten Forward, and O'Brien and Troi perform bridge duties. When an undetectable object collides with the ship, emergency systems isolate everyone where they are. Picard is injured and must rely on the scared children; Riker orders Data to risk his life to reach engineering; Worf must deliver Keiko's baby when she goes into labor; Geordi and Beverly are caught between a fire and several tanks of unstable fuel; and Troi is trapped on the bridge with a minimal crew and Ensign Ro is all too ready to point out the worst case scenario: unless the ship's antimatter supply is stabilized, the Enterprise could be destroyed.

1.103 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Game

Wesley Crusher, on vacation from Starfleet Academy, visits the Enterprise. During Wesley's visit, an holographic game Riker picked up on a visit to Risa begins to circulate around the ship, making every member of the crew who plays it an addict. Suddenly, Data - the only being who is immune to the game's addictive "rewards" - is mysteriously shut off. With the bridge crew and everyone else falling victim to the game, Wes discovers how the game works and becomes a hunted fugitive on the ship.

Etana Jol
Robin Lefler

1.104 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Unification, Part I

One of the Federation's most valued advisors, Spock, has been seen on Romulus. Picard is assigned to go to Romulus undercover and find out if Spock has defected from the Federation. The Enterprise goes to Vulcan, where Picard visits Sarek, and Riker investigates the recovered wreckage of a Vulcan ship. Sarek, near death, suggest that Spock may have gone to visit Pardek, a Romulan peace advocate Spock met at the Khitomer peace conference decades ago. The next stop is the Klingon planet, where Picard borrows a cloaked ship to cross the Neutral Zone. Picard and Data, equipped with disguises, head for Romulus. Federation shipyard operator Dokachen assists Riker in the wreckage investigation. They find an unidentified ship receiving supplies from the shipyard without authorization. The ship fires at the Enterprise, which fires back at minimum power - yet the other vessel explodes. Data and Picard, having just received news of Sarek's death, beam to Romulus and find Pardek, but before they can follow him, guards stop them and lead them to Pardek... and they discover that Spock is inded alive and well on Romulus.

Amarie
Bi'Jik
Combat Vessel
Spock

1.105 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Unification, Part II

Spock is promoting the idea of reunification of Romulus and Vulcan. Pardek gains Spock an audience with the Proconsul, Neral, who says he will endorse reunification. Picard is sceptical, to the annoyance of Spock, who thinks Picard's impression of him has been colored by Sarek. Neral is plotting with Sela to invade Vulcan with stolen Vulcan ships in the guise of a peace envoy and escorts. Riker gets the truth about the vessel destroyed in the shipyard out of the Ferengi accomplice of the ship's pilot. An intact Vulcan ship was to be delivered to the Neutral Zone border to Romulans for the invasion fleet. Picard, Spock and Data are taken prisoner when betrayed by Pardek. Sela prepares a hologram of Spock to read a statement about the peaceful mission of the Romulans. When Sela leaves to see the ships off, Data and Spock program the hologram to warn the Federation. The Enterprise intercepts the ships, but a Romulan Warbird destroys the Vulcan ships instead of allowing any evidence to remain of the invasion plot. Picard, Data and Spock escape, and rejoin Spock's Romulan followers in a new hiding place. Spock insists on staying so that he may continue to influence opinions on Romulus, even if only on a small scale.

1.106 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/A Matter of Time

While rushing to aid a planet whose atmosphere has been damaged by an asteroid collision the Enterprise is visited by Rasmussen, ostensibly a 26th century historian who has travelled in time to observe the crew's activities. Refusing to answer any question about the future, Rasmussen watches while attempts to salvage the planet almost worsen its condition. When Picard must make a decision that could destroy everyone on the planet or save them, he asks Rasmussen to tell him what history says about the outcome of the Enterprise's mission - but the time traveler carefully avoids answering... and Picard wonders if Rasmussen is really protecting history, or if he even knows anything about the future at all.

Berlingoff Rasmussen
Time Travel Pod

1.107 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/New Ground

The Enterprise is participating in a test of a new method of propulsion that would render warp engines obsolete by generating a wave that a starship would "ride" like a surfboard. While preparing for the test, Worf receives a message from Helena that she and Worf's son have come to visit. When they beam aboard, Alexander believes that he is staying on the Enterprise, and Helena tells Worf that Alexander has been disobedient and even untruthful, which is proven when, after enrolling in the ship's school, he steals a model on a field trip. Picard orders part of the ship to be evacuated after a freak accident with the propulsion experiment, but he and Worf discover that Alexander, once again in defiance of Worf's instructions, has gone to that section of the ship.

1.108 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Hero Worship

Investigating the disappearance of the U.S.S. Vico, the Enterprise crew finds that the missing vessel has been heavily damaged and is adrift inside a dark matter cluster. A single survivor, young Timothy, is rescued by Data, and is the only means of finding out what happened, since the logs of the disaster were also damaged. Timothy tries to emulate Data's lack of emotions in order to overcome his own confused feelings, but stops short of telling the truth about what happened - which is what Picard needs to know as the Enterprise follows the Vico's fateful course.

1.109 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Violations

A party of telepathic Ullians is visiting the Enterprise, ready to share their unique gift of probing into the mind and recovering lost memories. During their visit, Troi reminisces about an earlier encounter with Riker, and then her memory is invaded by an image of one of the Ullians. Dr. Crusher finds Troi in a coma, and she and Riker are the next to have their memories invaded. Data and Geordi try to track down the mystery ailment that has rendered key officers comatose - and discover that there may be no disease involved and one of the Ullians could be behind the telepathic intrusions.

Tarmin

1.110 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Masterpiece Society

Following a piece of star debris on its way through areas of unexplored space, the Enterprise crew discovers a colony of genetically engineered humans on Moab IV, a planet which will be devastated by the stellar fragment's close pass. Although his advisor Martin is hostile to the idea of introducing strangers to the perfectly balanced society, Conor, the colony's leader, allows an Enterprise away team to visit Moab IV. Troi and Conor enter a relationship, while engineer Hannah Bates works alongside Geordi to strive for an impossible discovery - moving the massive chunk of star debris without evacuation - and thus imbalancing - the colony. Even after using a technological offshot of Geordi's VISOR to release Moab IV from its death sentence, the Enterprise crew discovers that it may have now endangered the colony even worse by revealing a different way of life to the inhabitants.

Hannah Bates

1.111 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Conundrum

Investigating a possible indication of intelligent life in a distant area, the Enterprise is scanned by an unknown spacecraft. The crew's memories of who they are and everyone else around them, as well as specific computer files containing the crew records, are erased. Everyone still remembers their Starfleet skills, although others react differently without any knowledge of who they once were or what they did: Worf assumes command of the ship, while Riker and Ensign Ro are attracted to one another in a way neither would normally admit. Geordi eventually recovers the computer's crew manifest containing names, ranks and duties, identifying Commander Kieran MacDuff - who mysteriously appeared as soon as the crew's memories were damaged - as first officer. The computer finally divulges the basics of the Enterprise's current mission: to seek out and destroy the main base of the Lysian Alliance, with whom, according to the records, the Federation has been at war for many years. Although some members of the crew begin to question their orders as well as the unusually selective damage done to their memories and the computer, Commander MacDuff insists that the ship press on the attack.

1.112 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Power Play

Investigating a 200-year-old Starfleet distress signal emanating from a planet, which happens to be the last known location of the starship Essex, the Enterprise sends a shuttle through the planet's stormy atmosphere. The shuttle, with Riker, Troi and Data on board, crash lands resulting in Riker breaking an arm. Chief O'Brien beams down with a device to boost the transporter signal so the away team can be rescued, but all four are struck by a lightning-like discharge and all but Riker are knocked out. Riker operates the transporter booster and returns them to the Enterprise, where

---

Troi, O'Brien and Data take over the ship under the influence of aliens from the planet. They enter Ten Forward and take hostages, announcing that they are actually the spirits of the Essex crew. Demanding that their physical remains be recovered from the planet and returned to Earth, Troi - apparently taken over by the dead captain of the Essex - threatens to kill the hostages (including Keiko and her baby), and Picard's attempts to negotiate accomplish nothing, aside from convincing him that the terrorists are not who they claim to be.

1.113 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Ethics

Critically injured by falling containers in a cargo bay, Worf is paralyzed from the waist down, and Dr. Crusher can offer little in the way of hopes for complete recovery. The visiting Dr. Russell sees Worf's injury as a perfect chance to test her new device, which can - in theory - replicate entire organs after scanning the DNA of the original. Crusher disagrees, however, citing Russell's device as experimental at best, and refusing to allow Russell to operate. When Worf - claiming that life as an invalid would be a dishonorable burden to him and his family - begins to try to enlist Riker's help in committing suicide, Crusher is forced to let Russell attempt to restore Worf's spinal cord - an operation that could easily end the Klingon's life, leaving many of the crew concerned for Worf as well as Alexander.

Alexander Rozhenko

Toby Russell

1.114 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Outcast

Assisting the androgynous J'naii people in a search for a missing space shuttle, the Enterprise crew discovers a pocket of null space from which energy emissions cannot escape. Riker and J'naii pilot Soren take an Enterprise shuttlecraft into the null zone to investigate, a trip on which Soren makes Riker uneasy by her unusual curiosity about human sexuality and says that such practices among J'naii would be considered repugnant. Preparing for another trip, Soren reveals to Riker that she is one of a group of outlaws among the J'naii who embrace the "ancient" genders of male and female. After rescuing the J'naii shuttle crew and returning them safely, the Enterprise crew is invited to a celebration on the J'naii planet, during which Riker and Soren take their relationship a good deal further. When the other J'naii discover this, Soren is taken into custody so her "deviance" can be "cured", and Riker decides that he must disobey the prime directive to rescue Soren from her own society.

Soren

1.115 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Cause and Effect

---

Investigating a previously unexplored area of space, the Enterprise crew expects nothing but the normal routine of the unknown. After Dr. Crusher makes a mysterious complaint about hearing voices in her quarters, a time disturbance is detected close to the ship. After Picard orders Ro to distance the Enterprise from the phenomenon, all power is lost and a Federation starship emerges from the rift, colliding with the Enterprise, and the engine core, after the warp engines take critical damage, is destabilized. Picard orders all hands to evacuate, and the Enterprise blasts herself to bits. Investigating an unexplored area of space, the Enterprise crew expects nothing but the normal routine of the unknown. Shortly after Dr. Crusher and Riker begin to notice that events are repeating themselves. Dr. Crusher complains about hearing voices in her quarters. A time disturbance is detected close to the ship. After Picard orders Ro to distance the Enterprise from the phenomenon, all power is lost and a Federation starship emerges from the rift, colliding with the Enterprise, and the engine core, after the warp engines take critical damage, is destabilized. Picard orders all hands to evacuate, and the Enterprise blasts herself to bits. Investigating an unexplored area of space, the Enterprise crew expects nothing but the normal routine of the unknown. After Riker, Worf and Dr. Crusher notice that events are repeating, Crusher waits for and records the voices in her quarters at the same time Geordi's sensors detect an anomaly. Data analyzes the voices and reports that they are the voices of the crew. The Enterprise has entered a time loop in which all events that occurred since the ship's actual entry recur, and the "afterimages" of the events trapped in the loop allow the crew to know what is about to happen to them again. Data plans to leave himself a "message" that he will receive in a "subconscious" way, but before he can get far with his idea, a disturbance is detected near the ship. Picard orders Ro to distance the Enterprise from the phenomenon, and then all power is lost and the starship emerges from the rift colliding with the Enterprise, and the engine core is destabilized. Picard orders evacuation as Data transmits his message to the Data in the next time loop, and the Enterprise blasts herself to bits. Dr. Crusher notices events repeating once more. Data receives his own message just as Crusher once again records the voices in her quarters. The time disturbance appears, and Picard hesitantly repeats his order to stand off from the rift. The power drain occurs again, as does the emergence of the other ship. Data suddenly changes the chain of events by taking a course of action the crew has rejected in every time loop up until now, and the collision is avoided. The Enterprise has been caught in the time loop for nearly 18 days, but upon contacting the captain of the other ship, it is obvious that he and his crew have been repeating their collision with the Enterprise for over 70 years.

Morgan Bateson

1.116 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The First Duty

The Enterprise is heading back to Earth so Picard may deliver Starfleet Academy's commencement address, and the crew is also looking forward to an aerial stunt display performed in orbit over Saturn by Nova Squadron, the Academy's elite flight group, including Wes Crusher. As the Enterprise arrives, news reaches Picard and Dr. Crusher that Nova Squadron's five planes have collided during a practice maneuver, injuring four of the pilots and killing one of them. An inquiry is being launched into the accident, and squadron leader Locarno - backed up by Wes and the other cadets - testifies that blame lies on Cadet Joshua Albert, who died. Picard, while the investigation is underway, pays a visit to his old friend Boothby, the Academy gardener since Picard's days as a cadet. Wise old Boothby, and later Picard himself, begin to wonder if perhaps the surviving cadets of Nova Squadron aren't simply diverting the responsibility for their own mistake.

Nick Locarno
Satelk

1.117 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Cost of Living

The Enterprise is on an urgent mission to destroy an asteroid on a collision course with an inhabited planet. The asteroid is obliterated, but a metal-consuming substance riding the asteroid transfers to the hull of the Enterprise. Later, Worf and Alexander argue in Troi's office about their latest father-son dispute over the family rules, and as if that experience isn't enough of a headache, Lwaxana Troi beams aboard on her way to get married to Campio, a member of another planet's royalty (and Mrs. Troi reluctantly admits she hasn't actually met him yet). Mrs. Troi begins to interfere with Worf's relationship with Alexander, trying to show the boy how to revel in rebelling against authority. While Counselor Troi tells her mother not to intercede in Worf's family affairs, a problem is discovered with the ship's systems, caused by the metal "virus" (of which the crew is not yet aware). Mrs. Troi later reveals to Alexander that she isn't entirely sure about her upcoming marriage to Campio (who beams aboard with an ever-present aide whose duty seems to be that of making sure all of Campio's actions are as neutral and inoffensive as possible). The life support systems come under attack by the erosive substance, and when Picard orders the ship to warp to the nearest starbase, the engines are the next target of the virus, jeopardizing the Enterprise and everyone aboard.

Lwaxana Troi

1.118 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Perfect Mate

After rescuing a party of stranded miners, the Enterprise continues its mission to take Ambassador Bre'em and his cargo - an unusual cocoon - to meet Alrik of Volt so that their two worlds can end centuries of conflict. But when a Ferengi shuttlecraft is spotted in need of immediate help, Picard is forced to pick up the two Ferengi, who actually faked their emergency. The nosy Ferengi damage Bre'em's cocoon, which melts away to reveal the lovely empath Kamala, who grabs the attention of every man in her sight, and initially thinks that Picard's authoritarian demeanor makes him her future mate. Kamala is being transported as the property of Bre'em's government, and she is to be delivered - as a gift - to Alrik of Volt. Dr. Crusher convinces Picard that the ambassador's treatment of Kamala as an object is inhumane, but the possible results of allowing Kamala free roam the ship could be more risky than transporting her as cargo, since her very accurate empathic ability allows her to become the perfect mate for whomever she spends the most time with, whether that happens to be Riker, Worf, a group of unruly miners, Captain Picard...

1.119 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Imaginary Fried

As the Enterprise begins an investigation of a nebula, Ensing Sutter and his young daughter Clara are in Troi's office, where Clara is talking about her imaginary friend Isabella. Ensign Sutter, whose Starfleet career hasn't allowed him to stay in one place long enough for Clara to make any friends, is concerned that Clara's insistence on Isabella's existence is abnormal, but Troi doesn't think it is anything to worry about. An energy form enters the Enterprise, it materializes just as Clara imagines Isabella and begins to have Clara show it around the ship. Meanwhile, other energy-beings like "Isabella" begin to weave a web of strands around the ship to slow it down so they can feed off its power source. The crew realizes that the only way to try to communicate with the energy-beings is by having Clara to summon Isabella.

1.120 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/I, Borg

The Enterprise is exploring a star system when a distress call is detected, and Riker leads an away team to investigate. A single survivor is found amidst the wreckage of a scout ship, a young male Borg which is taken back to the Enterprise. As Picard is faced with a reminder of his ordeal with the Borg and argues with Guinan about the logic of bringing the Borg aboard, Geordi tries to instill the ship's Borg guest with a sense of individuality, starting by nicknaming him "Hugh". The crew is preparing a plan to send Hugh back with a computer virus that would unravel the Borg from inside out, but some of the crew's conscience begins to disturb them. Picard discovers that Geordi's benign attempts at communicating with Hugh could potentially have a far more devastating effect on the Borg collective society in the long run.

1.121 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Next Phase

A small Romulan ship is stranded, its crew threatened by the imminent danger of an engine explosion. An Enterprise away team beams aboard to assess the damage, but when Geordi and Ro try to return to the Enterprise with a piece of Romulan equipment, they are apparently lost in a transporter malfunction, and the rest of the crew assume they are dead. Geordi and Ro both awaken on the Enterprise, but they cannot be heard or seen by anyone else on the ship, and their bodies are able to simply pass through solid walls and doors due to their molecules being "phased". While Ro attempts to come to terms with her apparent death, Geordi discovers that he and Ro are leaving a trail detectable by the ship's sensors. The two try to alert the Enterprise crew of their predicament, and discover that the Romulans can intentionally phase themselves and are nearing the conclusion of a plan to destroy the Enterprise.

Interphase Generator

1.122 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Inner Light

The Enterprise discovers an alien probe of unknown origin, which detects the Enterprise and sends a transmission. Picard is knocked unconscious, He "wakes up" as Kamin, an astronomer on the planet Kataan. As Kamin orients himself to life on this world with his wife Eline, he tries to make some attempts to locate the Enterprise, discovering in the process that Kataan faces imminent destruction from a sun about to go nova. Kamin ages years, has children with Eline, watches old friends die and tries to convince people that their days on the planet are numbered. Meanwhile, on the Enterprise, where Picard has been unconscious for mere minutes, Riker is determined to break the probe's hold on Picard - but severing the link could kill Picard while he is still trapped in the mind of Kamin.

Ressikan Flute

1.123 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Time's Arrow, Part I

An excavation team on Earth summons the Enterprise to Earth, claiming to have found evidence of extraterrestrial visitors to the planet in the 19th century. Picard and Data are shown an astonishing artifact unearthed near Starfleet Academy: the head of Data, although he - with his head intact - is still serving on the Enterprise. As Data contemplates the news, Geordi traces a micro-organism discovered in fossilized form near Data's Head to the planet Devidia II. The Enterprise heads for that world immediately, where an away team beams down without Data, who believes the others are overreacting to his impending fate. Troi senses life on the planet, although no beings are visible. Data, whose head contains a component that could allow him to see the invisible life forms, beams down and phases into the beings' plane, reporting many large humanoid beings and an alien of some sort. Data is then snatched through time - to San Francisco in the late 1800s. He immediately begins making preparations to continue the exploration he was conducting on Devidia II after winning big in a local poker game. Elsewhere in the city, two humans - or at least aliens in the guise of humans - patrol the streets, finding a beggar and using a camouflaged device to steal the energy from his body, killing him. Meanwhile, Picard readies another away team when Guinan gives him cryptic advice, telling him he must join the away team. Data, in the 19th century, discovers that Guinan is on Earth in the same time period, though centuries before she met any of the Enterprise crew. Also present at the social function where Data finds Guinan is one Samuel Clemens, better known as Mark Twain, who overhears Data and Guinan discussing Data's real origins. On Devidia II, the away team replicates Data's experiment and they see the same life forms. Two beings arrive from a temporal rift, unloading more energy for their fellow aliens to feed on - energy taken from humans on Earth at the moment of death, according to Troi's empathic sense. Picard, Riker, Troi, Geordi and Dr. Crusher enter the gateway, which closes behind them as they travel back in time to search for Data and find out why alien beings are interfering with human history.

Devidian Door
Ophidian Cane
Madam Guinan
Samuel Clemens

1.124 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Time's Arrow, Part II

After Picard and the away team manage to find indigenios clothes and lodging, they begin a task which Data, separately, has pursued since arriving - attempting to track down the aliens. They find a couple, disguised as a doctor and nurse, who have been stealing energy and escaping unnoticed, and the deaths then are attributed to a cholera epidemic of the period. In the meantime, Data has enlisted the help of Guinan, but has run into some unwelcome curiosity from Samuel Clemens, who trails both Data and Guinan assuming that they've arrived from the future with evil intentions. Picard's away team captures the key to the aliens' neural energy - gathering trips but the aliens themselves escape - Picard's party is rescued from arrest by Data, who then introduces Guinan to Picard for the first time in her life. They then travel to the cavern where Data's head will be discovered in the 24th century. followed by Clemens. As Clemens pulls a gun on the travellers, the aliens return to retrieve their creature, but Data holds on to it, and one of the aliens escapes through a temporal rift. The energy surge causes Data to explode, and the alien nurse is left behind, dying. Riker, Crusher, Troi and Geordi return to the 24th century, taking Data's decapitated body with them - and again, they are followed by Clemens. Picard remains to make sure Guinan is unharmed, while the crew, in the 24th century, tries to retrieve Picard, send Clemens back to his native time, and stop further alien interference with Earth's past.

Data's Body

Data's Head

Samuel Clemens Pocketwatch

1.125 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Realm of Fear

The Enterprise locates the missing starship Yosemite, adrift in a matter stream between binary stars. A link between the two ships' transpoters must be established so an away team can investigate the Yosemite, but Lt. Barclay, assigned to the away team, reveals his life-long fear of transporting. Troi convinces him to overcome his fear long enough to beam over to the Yosemite. Beaming back to the Enterprise later, Barclay is sure he sees some kind of creature in the transport beam approach and touch him. Fearing he has contracted a psychosis caused by the transporter scrambling his brain, he becomes so preoccupied that Troi relieves him of duty while Geordi and Data begin reconstructing a mysteriously shattered sample container from the Yosemite, an experiment which reveals that there are indeed life forms in the matter stream. And Barclay is exhibiting early symptoms of something that may have killed the Yosemite's crew.

Miles O'Brien

1.126 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Man of the People

A transport vessel carrying Ambassador Alkar and a woman he introduces as his mother is attacked en route to mediation sessions between the warring societies of Reycag and Seronia. Alkar's party transfers to the Enterprise, which will complete their journey. On the way, Alkar befriends Troi, but this meets with intense hostility from his elderly companion. The old woman suddenly dies soon afterward, and Alkar asks Troi to assist him in performing the funeral mediation sacred to his race. After performing the ceremony, Troi begins to feel unusually angry, jealous and amorous toward Alkar and others on board. Dr. Crusher uncovers evidence that Troi's condition has been inflicted deliberately by Alkar, telepathically depositing his dark emotions in Troi, aging her body and destroying her mind, and the only release for Troi may be death.

Receptacle Stones
Ves Alkar

1.127 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Relics

While responding to a distress signal, the Enterprise encounters a Dyson sphere, a colossal artificial structure whose habitable interior surface is powered by a small star kept in the center of the sphere. The source of the distress signal, a 75-year-old transport ship, is found crashed into the outside surface of the sphere. An away team recovers a single survivor, who, when his ship crashed and no help was expected to arrive for quite some time, used an innovative last-ditch transporter modification to suspend himself. The occupant turns out to be Captain Montgomery Scott, chief engineer of the original Enterprise. Scotty is welcomed aboard the modern Enterprise, but soon finds that his skills and knowledge are of no use to Starfleet in the 24th century. In an attempt to make the uneasy visitor from the past feel useful, Picard assigns Geordi to take Scotty to work on the systems of the crashed transport ship, but the Enterprise is then captured and taken into the interior of the Dyson sphere by unknown forces. Scotty, left aboard the small, damaged ship with Geordi, may once again be the only hope for a starship called Enterprise.

Montgomery Scott

1.128 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Schisms

After Riker's complaints of fatigue, Geordi's VISOR causing him problems, and Worf feeling unusually jumpy, it becomes apparent that an external influence is responsible. Counselor Troi investigates and finds that several crew members have complained of similar symptoms stemming from unsettling dreams. Gradually, using a holodeck recreation of the dream environment programmed by those suffering the unusual effects, a mysterious string of experiments conducted by aliens from within the physical domain of subspace is discovered. As more incidents occur, with the crew powerless to stop them, the experiments become more deadly. Riker, who has been frequently experimented upon by the aliens, volunteers to take part in an experiment of the crew's own to see if the intrusions can be halted.

1.129 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/True Q

Student intern Amanda Rogers is transferred to the Enterprise to get a sample of Starfleet duty. An accident occurs in engineering which almost forces Geordi to blow the warp core out of the ship, but Amanda astonishingly reverses the impending catastrophe. Shortly afterwards, Q arrives and informs the crew that Amanda is a fledgling Q whose powers, just emerging, are beginning to concern the Q Continuum. The crew is left with no choice but to allow Q to tutor Amanda on matters of the responsibilities involved with possessing godlike powers, since obviously, none of them have any knowledge on the subject. But it gradually becomes apparent that Q, and his fellow occupants of the Continuum, may not have a benevolent fate in store for the confused Amanda.

Hide And Seek

1.130 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Rascals

A shuttlecraft bringing Picard, Guinan, Ensign Ro and Keiko collides with an energy disturbance, necessitating an emergency rescue via transporter. But the energy field disrupts transport, and the passengers from the shuttle arrive as children, though their minds are unaffected. They find it difficult to adjust - Picard worries about his lack of command presence, Ro despise being relieved of duty and O'Brien can't cope with Keiko's sudden reversion to youth. Guinan, however, seems to be enjoying herself. The ship continues on a course to respond to a distress call from a science team. On arrival at the site, the Enterprise is attacked by two Klingon ships which have been taken over by Ferengi. The Ferengi board the Enterprise and begin beaming the crew off to serve, along with the captured science team, as slave laborers. The Ferengi refuse any compromise, but Captain Picard and the other "youngsters" may be able to salvage the situation.

1.131 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/A Fistful of Datas

A scheduled maintenance layover allows the crew to indulge in some leisure activities, much to the dismay of Worf, who, without any duties to use as an excuse, must oblige Alexander by joining him for a wild west adventure on the holodeck with Troi. Meanwhile, Data and Geordi experience a malfunction during a test of Data's ability to interface with the ship's main computer, though they do not initially realize the extent of the malfunction. Shipwide computer errors occur, ranging from Spot's cat food being dispensed from every food slot, to images of Data replacing Worf's holodeck nemesis and kidnapping Alexander to hold the boy for a ransom. By the time Geordi begins effecting repairs, Worf is committed to a shootout with a holodeck villain who has Data's agility and precision.

1.132 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Quality of Life

The Enterprise arrives at Tyrus 7A to observe a new experimental method of mining, the particle fountain, which uses a stream of high-density particles to extract and lift planet-based ore from an orbiting station. A malfunction occurs while Geordi is visiting the station, and Dr. Farallon, the ambitious head of the particle fountain project, introduces her other innovation, a small repair robot called an exo-comp, which is able to correct the problems almost instantly. Later, while Data is visiting the station, another accident happens and Data notices an exo-comp exhibiting a will to survive. Data hypothesizes that the exo-comps are living beings with their own intelligence, and possibly the beginnings of sentience. But when he asked to prove that the exo-comps are alive, one of them appears to fail a test on the Enterprise, but has actually realized that it is being tested and is therefore intelligent and alive, though Dr. Farallon refuses to acknowledge the exo-comps' status. A crisis strands Picard and Geordi on the station, endangered by rising radiation levels, and Farallon proposes a solution which would amount to a suicide mission for the exo-comps. When the crew prepares to implement the solution and save Picard and Geordi, Data stands in the way of the rescue operation to protect the exo-comp's rights.

---

Exocomp

1.133 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Chain of Command, Part I

Near the border of Cardassian space, Picard is unexpectedly reassigned by Starfleet. There are indications that the Cardassians are mobilizing for war with the Federation. Picard, Dr. Crusher and Worf get ready for a mission they can't speak about to anyone. Captain Jellico, now in command of the Enterprise, doesn't score any points with the crew in his unusual demands that the ship be made combat ready. En route to Celtris III Picard tells Worf and Dr. Crusher that the Cardassians may be perfecting a nearly invincible new form of biological warfare. Meanwhile at the border, Jellico begins talks with Cardassian representatives which confuses them and the Enterprise's officers. On Celtris III, Picard's team find themselves in a trap. Crusher and a wounded Worf escape a Cardassian ambush, but Picard is captured and taken to Gul Madred, who has alarming foreknowledge of their attempt to gather intelligence. And the interrogation of Picard begins...

Alyna Nechayev

1.134 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Chain of Command, Part II

Cardassian representative Gul Lemec reveals to Jellico that Picard has been captured on Celtris III. Under interrogation by Gul Madred, Picard is tortured in the Cardassians' attempt to find out more about the defenses of Minos Korva, a planet once sought by the Cardassians in their war with the Federation. On the Enterprise, Jellico prepares for all-out war in the event of a collapse of diplomatic relations, but meets with open disapproval from Riker. Jellico relieves Riker of his duties and continues to deny that Picard's mission was ordered by Starfleet, which disqualifies Picard from the terms of the Federation-Cardassian treaty concerning fair treatment of prisoners of war. Picard resists further torture but is pushed to the limits of his endurance while Gul Madred continues to question him about Minos Korva, of which Picard knows nothing. Meanwhile, Jellico confronts the Cardassians and calls their bluff after discovering a flotilla of their warships hiding near Minos Korva. He successfully demands a withdrawal and the release of Picard. Returned to the Enterprise, Picard resumes command, but all is not normal after his experience at the hands of the Cardassians.

Gul Madred

1.135 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Ship in a Bottle

As the Enterprise is en route to witness the collision of two gaseous planets, Data and Geordi visit the London of Sherlock Holmes, noticing small programm anomalies. Barclay checks the holodeck's programmingg and unwittingly reactivates a program which had been created and put into storage four years before when Moriarty, in another Holmes program, evolved into Data's ideal adversary. Moriarty demands to talk to Picard. Unknown to the crew, he has been alive and aware in the computer's memory the whole time, and he defies the laws of physics by stepping out of the holodeck and roaming the Enterprise. Moriarty asks that a Countess with whom he fell in love in the course of another holodeck program he brought to life to accompany him, but Picard is reluctant, preferring instead to research just how Moriarty has achieved corporeal existence, and to determine whether or not the professor intends to continue his legendary criminal activities. As it turns out, Moriarty is indeed planning on attempting a swindle of an immense scale - but Picard means to see that Moriarty's scheme is limited to the scale of the holodeck.

1.136 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Aquiel

The Enterprise crew begins an investigation when the crew of a Federation communications relay station near the Klingon border is discovered to be missing, and there are signs on the station that someone has been killed with a phaser set on high power. Someone has taken the station's shuttle, and records of certain subspace transmissions have been taken. In the course of the investigation, Geordi goes through the logs of Lt. Aquiel Uhnari, searching for clues about what happened on the station. There are signs that she had experienced personality conflicts with the station's senior officer and only other occupant, and her logs mention visits from a belligerent Klingon. The Klingon is located by Picard, and the Klingons reveal that they have found Lt. Uhnari in the station's missing shuttle. Geordi, who has to come to "know" Aquiel through her logs, becomes personally involved in the investigation of the apparent murder of her superior officer on the station, but he has a hard time separating his responsibility to solving the mystery from his personal feelings.

Canar

1.137 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Face of the Enemy

Counselor Troi, waking up after being kidnapped from a neuro-psychology seminar, finds herself aboard a Romulan Warbird, posing as a member of Romulan intelligence to participate in a carefully plotted defection attempt by a Vice-Proconsul of the Romulan High Council. With the clandestine guidance of a member of the Romulan crew, Troi plays her role convincingly. In the meantime, a former human defector to Romulus returns to the Federation and arrives on the Enterprise with a message to Picard from Ambassador Spock, who remains in hiding on Romulus assisting defectors and dissidents. The message sends an unwitting Picard to rendezvous with the ship carrying Troi and the defector, an encounter which forces Troi to make a split-second decision to either break with the intricate plans of the defection scheme, or to follow her Romulan confidant into what might be a trap.

---

Major Rakal

1.138 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Tapestry

After a diplomatic meeting with aliens goes drastically wrong and ends in an exchange of fire, an away team is beamed into sick bay with a dying Picard. As Dr. Crusher tries desperately to resuscitate Picard, a near-death vision begins in Picard's mind... or so he thinks, until Q is revealed to be behind it. Q informs Picard that his artificial heart - which Picard gained after, as a newly-commissioned ensign 30 years before, he instigated a brawl with three huge Nausicaans and got stabbed through the heart - is the cause of his death in the present.

Lt. (j.g.) Picard
Nausicaans
Picard's Artificial Heart
Zon

1.139 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Birthright, Part I

The Enterprise visits Deep Space 9 to deliver supplies and personnel to assist the rebuilding of Bajor. On the station's promenade, Worf encounters an alien profiteer who claims to know the whereabouts of Worf's father, allegedly still alive. While Worf, troubled, ponders the legitimacy of this news, Data and Geordi assist Dr. Bashir, visiting from the station, in conducting an analysis of a piece of equipment discovered in the gamma quadrant. An accidental power overload shuts Data down momentarily, yet he has a vision of a short walk through the corridors of the Enterprise and a brief encounter with his creator, Dr. Soong. Unsure of how to interpret or proceed from this experience, Data seeks the advice of many others, including Worf. Still contemplating a possible journey to find his father, Worf advises Data to pursue the search for his own "father" at whatever the cost, while Worf himself finally resolves to embark on a dangerous quest to a Romulan prison camp. When he arrives, Worf finds not only a familiar Klingon face, but many others, all of whom are secretive about their internment until Worf is captured by Romulans.

Yridian Shuttle

1.140 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Birthright, Part II

Worf is trapped in what was once a Romulan prison camp, and though he is not allowed to leave, he discovers that the Romulan and Klingon occupants of the planet have sacrificed any futures they might have had among their own people to settle down into peaceful co-existence, in some cases producing children. Worf befriends Ba'el, a Klingon-Romulan girl who seems more fascinated with him. He discovers, through her and a young Klingon boy named Toq, that the children of the colony know little or nothing of either race's heritage. Worf intends to remedy what he perceives as a lack of cultural education, even at the risk of dividing the loyalties of the camp's residents.

Ba'el
Gi'ral

1.141 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Starship Mine

The Enterprise stops at the Remler Array for a routine decontamination sweep. The sweep, however, requires the evacuation of the ship, since it will be conducted with a beam that is deadly to living tissue. At a nearby starbase, most of the crew try to avoid Commander Hutchinson, an interminably boring office hosting a reception. At the mention of horses on the planet, Picard decides to return to the Enterprise briefly to get his saddle, but while there, he notices that unauthorized modifications have been made by a team posing as starbase technicians. As the sweep begins with the aft end of the ship and moves slowly forward, Picard prepares to beam back to the Starbase, to warn security, but ship's power is cut off due to the sweep, leaving Picard trapped on the ship with an unknown group of hostiles. Meanwhile, on the starbase, the rest of the Enterprise's officers are taken hostage, and it becomes obvious that there is a well co-ordinated plan underway which involves the Enterprise.

1.142 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Lessons

When he goes to the Enterprise's stellar cartography department to ask why their latest experiment is diverting power from nearly every system on the ship, Picard meets Lt. Commander Daren, a new member of the crew who intrigues him with her honesty and unpredictability. They begin to form a relationship, and Picard worries that the rest of the crew might misinterpret that relationship, interfering with his command. But depending on the outcome of hazardous away team duty on Bersallis III, Picard and Daren may not have long to explore what this new development in their lives mean.

Neela Daren

1.143 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Chase

Professor Galen, Picard's beloved archaeology professor from his days at Starfleet Academy, comes aboard the Enterprise in an attempt to recruit Picard for a private expedition, the conclusion of which Galen claims to have profound implications for the entire galaxy. Picard regretfully turns down Galen's offer, but later finds himself taking up the professor's work when Galen's ship is unexpectedly attacked and destroyed. Following his late mentor's vague leads and secretive trails, Picard takes the Enterprise to distant worlds, attempting to piece the puzzle together. But it is discovered that others - a great variety of others, at that - are also attempting to finish Galen's work, and the end result could be a secret of vast power.

---

Kurlan Naiskos
Ocett
Richard Galen

1.144 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Frame of Mind

Riker's rehearsals for an upcoming play about a man in an insane asylum, not to mention his preparations for an impending undercover mission on a planet divided by warring factions, are punctuated by feelings of paranoia he can't explain, as well as the periodic appearance of an apparently new officer whose presence makes Riker nervous. But after the performance of the play, Riker suddenly finds that he is indeed in an asylum - though even this perception becomes tenuous. Terrified of losing his grip on sanity, Riker starts clawing through layers of illusions in an attempt to get back to reality.

Reflection Therapy
Suna

1.145 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Suspicious

Dr. Crusher goes out on a limb by gathering some of the brightest minds in the galaxy aboard the Enterprise to listen to a proposal from Ferengi scientist Reyga for a powerful subspace shield. Skepticism and competition divide the scientists, but a demonstration is arranged, using an Enterprise shuttle. The pilot, who is also one of the scientist, dies when the experiment goes wrong. Beverly, already regretful for the failure of Reyga's invention, suddenly finds herself in the middle of a murder investigation when Reyga himself is found dead.

Dr. Reyga
Jo'Bril
T'Pan
Unscientific Method

1.146 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Rightful Heir

Worf journeys to Boreth, where devout Klingons meditate in hope of glimpsing a vision of Kahless, the legendary leader of all Klingons and the originator of their hereditary quest for honor and glory. Worf and many of the others are surprised when Kahless actually appears and announces his intention to return to the imperial throne and put the Klingon Empire back on a path toward honor. Worf is skeptical at first, but when Gowron, the Empire's current leader, demands a genetic test, which proves that the new arrival is indeed Kahless, a deep division separating skeptics and those who wish to follow Kahless seems imminent.

---

Divok
U.S.S. Galaxy

1.147 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Second Chances

Returning to a planet that a Starfleet research party hastily abandoned eight years ago, an away team finds Lt. Will Riker, a copy of Riker created by a transporter anomaly during his participation in the original evacuation. This Riker has never been assigned to the Enterprise, nor has he resolved his relationship with Troi as the "real" Riker, and his isolation has resulted in a very different personality from the Riker who has served on the Enterprise for six years. His motivations, discipline and judgment differ from his higher-ranking alter-ego, and the two Rikers must stop seeing each other's perceived failings long enough to assist one another in a dangerous salvage mission.

Thomas Riker

1.148 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Timescape

Returning via runabout from a Starfleet conference, Picard, Troi, Geordi and Data encounter strange disturbances in time that seem to have limited physical range. Finally locating the Enterprise they find her in some kind of exchange of fire with a Romulan warbird, in a zone of time that moves so slowly it appears to be still. Altering escape equipment to allow freedom of movement in the other areas of time, Picard and the others try to determine whether the Enterprise was invaded by Romulans, or if it was simply caught in a rescue attempt gone wrong - and whether or not they can restart the flow of time without bringing events to their inevitably disastrous end.

Runabout

1.149 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Descent, Part I

The Enterprise arrives at the site of a recent attack on a Starbase, only to find the Borg in orbit in a new class of vessel much larger than their previously known forms of transport. The Borg have also changed, now possessing some form of individuality and emotion - and they have also developed a desire to simply kill organic life forms, not absorb them into the Borg collective consciousness. A squadron of Borg attack an away team from the Enterprise, and Data, in the process of fending off a Borg, experiences an inexplicable flash of ruthless anger and kills the Borg. The attacking party defeated, the away team returns to the Enterprise and Picard contacts Starfleet. The new Borg pose an unknown but likely more serious threat than ever before to the Federation. After determining the new Borg ship's method of propulsion, the Enterprise follows and is attacked once again. Meanwhile, Data has yet to make any further progress in his analysis of his first emotion - but a captured Borg makes Data a seductive offer to experience more emotions... and it turns out to be an offer Data cannot resist.

Albert Einstein
Sir Isaac Newton

Hey Decipher, what about Stephen Hawking?

1.150 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Descent, Part II

Taken prisoner by Lore and the Borg while trying to locate the missing Data, an away team consisting of Picard, Troi and Geordi is trapped while the Enterprise is attacked in orbit by the Borg ship. Left in command by Picard, Beverly beams aboard as many of the Enterprise search parties from the planet below as she can and is forced to retreat. Riker and Worf, left behind, discover that Hugh is in hiding on the planet and is biding his time to wrest control of the newly-individualized Borg from Lore, who appealed to the disoriented members of the former collective to follow him to a state of completely non-organic immortality. In the meantime, Data has distanced himself from his past, showing cruelty and sadism toward his captured former comrades. Riker offers to help Hugh in his fight against Lore while hoping to free Picard and the others, as Beverly decides to turn the Enterprise around to retrieve the rest of the crew - but if Data continues to obey the dictates of Lore, there may be no members of the crew to retrieve.

Lore
Taitt

1.151 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Liasions

An Iyaran delegation visits the Enterprise for the first formal diplomatic function between Iyar and the Federation. Picard is scheduled to shuttle back to Iyar, while Iyaran ambassadors Loquel and Byleth remain on the Enterprise. The Iyaran shuttle taking Picard back to their homeworld crash-lands on a planet covered with violent electrical storms, one of whose plasma lightning bolts injures Picard when he leaves the shuttle to look for medical aid for the critical injured pilot. A woman named Anna, who has apparently been stranded alone on the planet for seven years, gets Picard to shelter inside a crashed freighter. On the Enterprise, ambassadors Loquel and Byleth test the patience of their respective hosts, Troi and Worf, while Picard has to contend with a woman whose isolation has driven her to try to keep him in the crashed vessel with her - but Picard learns that no survivors of the freighter's complement or crew are actually still alive.

1.152 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Interface

---

A new interface is being tested by Geordi to control remote unmanned probes. Utilizing his VISOR implants, Geordi is able to see, hear and experience whatever conditions the probe encounters. His interface with the probe comes in useful while the Enterprise investigates the loss of the starship Raman. But during the mission, Picard receives word that the starship Hera, commanded by Geordi's mother, has disappeared with all hands, and Starfleet, despite dispatching two more vessels to search, does not expect to find the Hera or any of her crew. Geordi is profoundly affected by the news, and when he encounters an image of his mother on the Ramana, he goes against his father's advice and Picard's direct orders and tries to use his unique interface with the probe to find out what has happened to her.

Dr. La Forge

1.153 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Gambit, Part I

Riker, Troi, Worf and Crusher are searching for the missing Captain Picard on Desica II to no avail. A Yridian claims he witnessed Picard's death in a seedy bar after an argument with a group of aliens, and offers to give Riker some clues in exchange for safe passage of the planet. Once aboard the Enterprise, the Yridian leads Riker to a planet in the Barada system, where an away team led by Riker beams down to hunt for possible leads in the investigation. A well-armed group of aliens under the command of a Romulan ambushes the away team, and Riker is captured and beamed away with the attackers. Data takes command of the Enterprise and pursues the alien ship. Riker finds himself in the hands of a band of mercenaries commanded by Baran, a vicious-tempered leader who maintains the loyalty of his crew - and Riker - by using pain-generating implants which he controls. Riker is astounded to find that the newest member of the rogue crew on their mysterious mission to raid ancient Romulan artifacts is a knowledgeable rogue named "Galen" - better known to Riker as Captain Picard!

Baran
Galen
Giusti
Mercenary Ship
Narik
Vekor

1.154 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Gambit, Part II

Riker is accepted into Baran's outlaw fold by pretending to be an old enemy of "Galen", and the mercenaries' mission continues. Picard discovers that Baran's gang is not looking for Romulan artifacts, but for ancient Vulcan artifacts. The Romulan mercenary Tallera reveals herself as an undercover Vulcan security operative, and she earns Picard's trust enough for him to reveal his own identity. A Klingon shuttle pilot carrying the last of three vital artifacts is intercepted by the Enterprise, which becomes Baran's next target. Riker is left for dead in the Enterprise by Picard to resume command, as Picard leads a mutiny among the mercenaries and kills Baran. Picard must try to play into Riker's hands without rousing the mercenaries' suspicions - or Tallera's.

Tallera
Vulcan Stone of Gol

1.155 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Phantasms

Having just received a new warp core from a starbase, the Enterprise departs with both Picard and Geordi ready to test the more efficient drive system en route to an admirals' banquet which Picard is not looking forward to. The warp core fails to perform to expectations - in fact, it fails to perform at all. Simultaneously, Data experiences his first nightmare, and then his second, and his third, all full of disturbing imagery he feels he should not ignore. His friends don't think it's anything to worry about, until Data's nightmare visions drive him to commit acts of violence.

1.156 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Dark Page

Lwaxana Troi visits the Enterprise again along with a small delegation of Icarans, who communicate in telepathic imagery with no verbal elements whatsoever. To prepare them for their first meeting with the Federation council, Mrs. Troi is trying to help the Icarans learn to translate their imagery into speech, a facility they were born without. Not long after Deanna notices her mother experiencing brief episodes of intense anguish, Lwaxana collapses into a coma, and the only clues to her condition and the reason for it are held by the Icarans, who are not able to fully communicate it.

Ian Andrew Troi
Maques

1.157 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Attached

The world inhabited by the Kes and Prit is divided; the Prit are xenophobic to the point of hostility but the Kes have applied for membership in the Federation, which is surprising since they are paranoid to the point of operating like a police state. Beaming down to meet with Kes representatives, Picard and Beverly are kidnapped by the Prit, who believe the potential Kes affiliation with the Federation to be a military pact. Fitted with neural implants to allow their captors to retrieve information without an interrogation, Picard and Beverly manage to escape with the aid of an undercover Kes agent onto the surface, where they are to head to the Kes border. An unusual side-effect of their implants allows them to hear each other's thoughts en route. In the meantime, Riker is trying to glean information about his captain's whereabouts from a Kes representative who is deliberately being less than helpful.

1.158 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Force of Nature

Investigating the mystery of missing starships, the Enterprise finds that a brother and sister have been misleading and damaging all warp-capable vessels that enter the region of space near their home world, claiming that warp engines are agitating a sensitive subspace rift which threatens to destroy everything nearby if it becomes active. Reluctant to accept this theory, Picard and the crew plan to rescue the damaged ships and move along, but when one of the protesters opens the subspace rift with a burst of warp energy, the Enterprise may be unable to escape.

1.159 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Inheritance

On a mission to salvage an endangered planet, the Enterprise is visited by Dr. Tainer and her husband, two scientist whose plan may save the planet. The first chance she has to speak to Data privately, Tainer reveals herself to be the ex-wife of Dr. Soong and co-designer of Data and Lore. Though he is skeptical at first, Data finds evidence that she may be who she claims to be, and begins to spend time with her in an effort to find out about his creation and development.

Juliana Tainer

1.160 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Parallels

Returning triumphant from a Klingon martial arts competition, Worf walks right into a surprise birthday party, but notices that something is amiss aboard the Enterprise; events begin contradicting themselves, and cause no longer leads to a logical effect. His environment and his comrades change - Troi suddenly believes she is Worf's wife; Geordi is killed in engineering duty during a Cardassian assault. Worf alerts Data to the strange occurrences, and Data begins to research a way to send Worf back to his original universe. Further disparities appear, including Riker's command since Captain Picard's death in the Borg invasion several years ago, and Worf's two children (neither of them Alexander) by Troi. Data discovers the way to send Worf back... but when Enterprises from every possible variation of every potential reality appear, not every crew wants reality restored to its normal flow.

Space-Time Portal

1.161 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/The Pegasus

The Enterprise is assigned to head for an asteroid belt in a sensitive area between Romulan and Federation space, with Admiral Pressman from Starfleet Security aboard. Along the way, it is clear that the Enterprise's objective is top secret, and that Pressman and Commander Riker have some old business to discuss. On his first Starfleet mission as an ensign, Riker served aboard the U.S.S. Pegasus and witnessed a shipwide mutiny against that ship's captain - Pressman. Riker defended Pressman at the time and they were among a handful of survivors who escaped before the ship was apparently destroyed by a mishap in engineering. Now, twelve years later, Pressman reveals to Riker, that the Enterprise's secret mission is to search for the Pegasus - Riker's first starship still exists, and still harbors the treacherous secret that once sparked a vicious mutiny whose nature is still a dark, closely-guarded secret in the files of Starfleet Security.

Eric Pressman

1.162 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Homeward

Dr. Nikolai Rozhenko, Worf's human foster brother, has sent a distress call from his hidden cultural observation post on Boral II, a planet whose atmosphere is going to break down in less than two days. Worf beams down, disguise as a Boralan, only to find that his brother has also been masquerading as a native and providing them with means of survival based on the technology of his observation post. Nikolai is admonished by Picard for his severe violation of the Prime Directive, but when the planet is within seconds of dying, commits an even greater breach by transporting a handful of Boralans into a holodeck simulation of the shelter on their world. The Enterprise crew - especially Worf - are now left with the dilemma of relocating the simplistic Boralans to a new world without revealing the true nature of their surroundings. Damage to the holodeck jeopardizes the mission.

Beverly Crusher
Nikolai Rozhenko

1.163 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Sub Rosa

The Enterprise is visiting Caldos, a terraformed Earth colony modeled after 17th century Scotland, so Dr. Crusher may attend the funeral of her grandmother. Also attending the funeral is an unknown man whose appearance mystifies Crusher. While the Enterprise crew gives the colony's seismic and meteorological control systems a routine check, strange things begin happening. In her grandmother's journals, Beverly learns that her grandmother, despite being over a century old, had a young lover. When a strange voice appears to her first in dreams then in waking, Beverly realizes that the mystery man from the funeral - and from her grandmother's past - has come for her as well.

1.164 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Lower Decks

A promotion is nearing for one of a group of four friends who are junior officers aboard the Enterprise. Sito, a Bajoran ensign who was involved in the Nova squadron accident cover-up at Starfleet Academy with Wesley Crusher, is neck-in-neck for a promotion to Ops with the ambitious Lavelle, who is attempting to make a favorable impression on Commander Riker. Vulcan Ensign Taurik is an engineering specialist whose duties of late have grown mysterious, as have those of Nurse Ogawa, who is also due for a promotion. The Enterprise is undertaking a top secret mission, the true purpose of which is unknown to the four friends - though each of them has a piece of the puzzle, and a part to play, in this critical event.

Alyssa Ogawa
Sito Jaxa
Taurik

1.165 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Thine Own Self

Counselor Troi returns from her Academy class reunion to find Dr. Crusher in charge of the bridge, and begins wondering about the possibility of achieving her own position in the ship's chain of command. Crusher, for her part, is on watch while Data is away in a shuttlecraft retrieving radioactive fragments of a destroyed space probe. Data's shuttle crashes on a world inhabited by relatively primitive humanoids, and his radioactive cargo disrupts his ability to access his memory of who he is or where he is from. Data wanders into the nearest village carrying the case of hazardous materials, with which he unwittingly contaminates everyone. The only hope for the locals is for Data to restore his memory.

1.166 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Masks

Studying an ancient comet at close range, the crew of the Enterprise becomes aware of strange objects appearing on board. An unexplained surge of energy affects the ship's computer systems and Data as well. The comet is revealed to be an archaic spaceborne artifact of a bygone alien civilization. The Enterprise's computer is filled with symbols and hieroglyphics whose meanings are known only to Data, though he has never before encountered anything like them. Soon Data himself is transformed, exhibiting a number of personalities from the alien archive. The ship's computer and even parts of the ship itself transform themselves into objects whose function can only be deduced by studying the alien civilization. But by the time Piacrd and the others can gain an understanding of what has taken control of their ship, the Enterprise and Data will be transformed into an ancient alien temple - and its resident goddess.

1.167 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Eye of the Beholder

A young officer recently posted to the Enterprise commits suicide by leaping into an energy stream in one of the ship's warp nacelles. Trying to find out why, Troi begins investigating the last days of the deceased by speaking to his friend and co-workers, and eventually winds up surveying the warp nacelle post, where she experiences an inexplicable emotional upheaval which may be an echo left by the partially empathic officer's final burst of feelings and thoughts. She tries to probe this psionic artifact for its true meaning, and uncovers a betrayal which is older than anyone realizes.

Calloway

---

1.168 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Genesis

A routine test of Worf's new photon torpedo guidance system sends a potentially hazardous torpedo astray into deep space, which Picard and Data set off to recover via shuttlecraft. When they return from their mission, they find that every inhabitant of the ship has somehow mutated into more primitive forms of life, some dangerous, others not. The cause of this condition is a virus which has now infected Picard, leaving him and Data very little time to reverse the plight of the crew.

1.169 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Journey's End

Wesley Crusher, on a sabbatical from Starfleet Academy, has returned to the Enterprise in an attempt to recoup his energies in time to graduate. He is troubled by something which he has yet to reveal to anyone, but more pressing matters are on the mind of Picard and the crew as Starfleet orders the Enterprise to evacuate or otherwise remove a colony of Native American Indians who have settled on an isolated planet to preserve their culture. This planet is now due to be handed over to the Cardassians according to the terms of a treaty which realigns the borders of Federation and Cardassian space, and the Indian colonists will no longer be welcome. Tired of their history of being displaced by territorial bureaucracy, the Indians of Dorvin V decide to reshape the borders themselves to protect what they hold sacred- and they find a sympathizer in Wesley, who jeopardizes his Starfleet career to help them and learn more about them.

Evek
Jack Crusher
Lakanta

1.170 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Firstborn

As Alexander nears the age where he must decide whether or not to become a warrior, Worf grows worried that the boy will choose to shed all vestiges of Klingon heritage. Visiting a Klingon outpost during a festival, Worf and Alexander are cornered by a gang of street thugs. As Worf manages to fight most of them off, the fight is ended by a Klingon who calls himself K'mtar, a bodyguard appointed by Worf's brother Kurn. K'mtar reveals that the attack was not random, but an assassination attempt planned by Lursa and B'Etor, who are still scheming to someday overthrow the Empire. With the help of K'mtar, and some gossip courtesy of Quark, the Enterprise sets off to track down the Duras sisters when it becomes evident that someone is trying to tamper with future affairs.

Batrell
Gorta

1.171 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Bloodlines

---

Picard receives a threat from his old Ferengi adversary DaiMon Bok, who still blames Picard for the death of his son in the first encounter between the Federation and the Ferengi. Bok announces his intent to kill Jason Vigo to avenge his loss, and the threat disturbs Picard. After tracking Jason down, Picard is stunned when genetic tests confirm that Jason is the son of Picard and a woman from his past. Jason turns out to be a rebellious young man with a record of misdemeanors involving theft and trespassing and a passion for rock climbing. Bok continues to mysteriously get through the Enterprises's defenses to threaten Jason's life, until he finally kidnaps Jason and has his opportunity for vengeance.

Bok

1.172 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Emergence

While rehearsing a scene from "The Tempest" in the holodeck, Data and Picard are amazed when they are nearly run over by the Orient Express, the famed 19th century locomotive whose itinerary never once included Prosper's island. Investigation of this quirk is postponed by the Enterprise's sudden jump to warp speed, and a fortuitous exit from warp just in time to avoid the ship's destruction. When the crew concentrates the search to this problem, a strange modification of the ship's circuitry is discovered, one which seems to be tying many disparate systems together. When the ship's systems take measures to protect the growing anomaly, the truth becomes clear - this is no accident, but a new intelligence all its own taking form within the Enterprises's hull.

1.173 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/Preemptive Strike

A reception for recent Starfleet Advanced Tactical Training graduate Ro Laren is cut short when the Enterprise responds to a Cardassian ship's distress call. Arriving on the scene, Picard and the crew discover that the Cardassians are under attack by a flotilla of small vessels commanded by the renegade Maquis. After chasing them off and assisting the Cardassians, the Enterprise receives a visit from Admiral Nechayev, who delivers to Picard the message that Starfleet intends to use Ro to infiltrate the Maquis, and she accepts the mission, posing as an ex-Starfleet defector and gaining the acceptance of the Maquis. However, when Ro and her "fellow" Maquis are the targets of a vicious Cardassian sneak attack, she questions Starfleet's rationale for stopping the Maquis and makes her defection a reality.

1.174 STCCG.guide/Episodes/TNG/All Good Things...

Picard experiences time shifts between three different periods: the present, a time 25 years in the future and the past, during the Enterprises's first mission. Q appears to pass the final judgement on humanity. He makes it clear to Picard that the captain himself is responsible for the disaster of the entire universe. After Q has shown Picard that the anomaly in the Devron system grows backwards in time and threatens to prevent the very formation of life on earth, Picard can find a way to destroy the anomaly using the ships in the past, present annd future.

---

Beverly Picard
Future Enterprise
I.K.C. Chang
U.S.S. Pasteur

---