PHOTOGRAPHY

Have you ever been in love with a project to the extent that setbacks and slow progress really just served as a way of prolonging the pleasure of knitting it? I've been knitting the same sweater for eight months now—actively working on this project that whole time. Although the sweater is oversized, heavily textured, and worked on size 3 needles, it's not that the knitting is slow—I keep ripping it out! From gauge issues to reworked gussets to developments at the armholes and the yoke and the neck bind-off, this bright red gansey is a simple tube of purl patterning that has caused me more trouble than any project in quite some time. But I am so in love with it. I think I'm sabotaging my own work so that the knitting of it will not end.

The little steel needle tips, the toothy red wool with its high twist (I'm using Wendy Guernsey Wool, read about it on page 16), the panels of purl motifs and narrow rope cables now fully committed to memory and fingers, the way the fabric lies across the chair arm, stiff with texture and woolly character . . . I am definitely a gansey initiate. This past year, my personal interest in the iconic fisherman sweater led me to the story of Sarah Lake Upton and her American gansey wool (read the profile on page 12). Another fan of the fisherman knit, Courtney Kelley, designed a modern gansey dolman for this issue (page 39), which she told me was one of her favorite designs ever. She sent the sample in with a sigh that was nearly audible from a thousand miles away. I understand.

As the year turns over and we slip into spring, it seems silly that I'm still working on this project. I do think it's time to commit to progress and finish it, and perhaps get a chance to wear it before the earth rotates too much. I'm holding onto it, partly because I worry that the next project won't be as enjoyable to knit. And there lies the revelation that has tumbled into my lap along with the long red fabric: holding onto known entities for fear that nothing else will ever be better is something I do all too often. It's an apparent oddity that is nevertheless common: creative people who fear the unknown. Is it not in the next discovery, the next experiment, that we flex our creative muscles and satisfy that inquisitive itch? That we grow?

Your first knitting project was a challenge, I am sure. But are you feeling challenged now? What will excite you, frustrate you, force you to rip and remeasure and chart and calculate and insert lifelines? What will be your next favorite kind of thing to knit? That's what I want to find out this year. In that vein, Interweave Knits will feature a variety of project types and techniques in 2015—some quite traditional and some highly unusual (perhaps not even using needles!). I hope you'll stay tuned and do some experimenting of your own, perhaps commit to an epic eight-month sweater that you'll knit into a love story. And remember, we always have more tutorials and patterns online, through videos at craftdaily.com and blogs and downloads at knittingdaily.com.

Happy, happy knitting,
Sincerely,

Lisa Shroyer

Crystaletts Pin

Add Some Sparkle to Your Knitting!

Bring some bling to your next knitting project by adding beautiful, sparkling Crystaletts pins—in gold or silver tones with 8 different crystal colors. You can add these sparklers even to your finest knitting or crochet project because the extra thin wire of the pins won't leave a hole—they can be pinned anywhere on your knitted or crochet fabric without damage. The safety-style pins open and close easily but lock in place while in use, and can be used to mark a stitch change or pin anywhere in your project for a reminder. Also, these pins work very well with Crystaletts Tag-A-Stitch markers, which help you keep track of your stitches.

- Gold or silver tone pins
- 16 pins per package
- 8 crystal colors (2 of each crystal color per package)
- Pins fit up to size 13 US knitting needle

Clearly Organized TMM Award winner

Your Needles and Hooks—Clearly Organized

Get your knitting needles and crochet hooks in line with the Clearly Organized case, which lets you see all your needles and hooks without opening the case. The unique vinyl fabric keeps your needles and hooks in place and includes changeable needle size cards, plus blank cards to write your own needle or hook sizes. The beautifully detailed case wraps up with a high-quality grosgrain ribbon in pink or black.

- Double-point needle cases: 18 pockets for 6-inch needle sizes from 000-000 to 10 U.S.
- Interchangeable cases: 11 pockets to accommodate the needle tips from 2 U.S. to 8 U.S. plus extra pockets for multiples of the same-size needles and six deep pockets to hold all your cables and accessories.

Needles not included with case.

Tag-A-Stitch

Keep Track of Your Stitches with Tag-A-Stitch

Never forget where you left off in your project! Add a Tag-A-Stitch to any stitch marker and place the appropriate tag on the stitch. The tags include 51 common knitting abbreviations, plus 7 blank disks so you can write your own notes. Tag-A-Stitch tags are lightweight, so they won't pull on your knitting project. They're stored conveniently on a small ring so you can locate your tags quickly.

Modern Bohemian

Airy yarns, sparkling stitch markers, and whimsical projects flourish this spring season!

1 Road to China Lace is The Fibre Company's newer version of the Road to China Light yarn line. The content is the same fabulous blend of baby alpaca, silk, camel, and cashmere. The difference lies in its two-ply laceweight fineness and in its alternate set of vibrant colorways. Distributed by Kelbourne Woolens. www.kelbournewoolens.com

2 A recent yarn sensation is Zealana Air, fittingly a part of the company's (www.zealana.co.nz) Luxuria series. Air is a luxurious blend of brushtail possum down, cashmere, and silk. The pill-resistant yarn is laceweight, yet warmer than 100% cashmere. It comes in a wide range of brights, pastels, and deep hues. Distributed by the Yarn Sisters. www.theyarnsisters.com

3 KnitCa's new Jumbo Wooden Buttons are a naturally beautiful option for a quality finishing touch. Enjoy creating jumbo buttonholes for them to fit through or add them as a decorative feature. They come in three different styles, shown here, and measure about 2 inches (about 50 mm) in diameter. www.knitca.com

4 Interweave's own Joni Coniglio sheds light on grafting knitted projects in her new eBook entitled How to Graft Your Knitting Invisibly (Interweave, 2014). Filled with new content about grafting your knitting in any stitch pattern, grafting charts she developed, and three brand-new patterns, this comprehensive eBook is a must-have for anyone who wants to master grafting beyond the Kitchener stitch. Download today! interweavestore.com

5 New from Interweave Books, Wanderlust: 46 Modern Knits for Bohemian Style (2015) includes forty-six brand-new knitting patterns from top knitwear designers, compiled by Tanis Gray. The wide-ranging projects—scarves, cowls, hats, sweaters, mittens, and wristers—all feature Cascade Yarns Longwood, an Aran-weight superwash merino wool. Order today! interweavestore.com

6 The gray, heathered quality of Blackery Yarns Westcountry Tweed comes from the blending of Teeswater Crossbred and Black Welsh Mountain wools, both small-flock breeds residing in England. This limited yarn line comes in natural gray, as well as dyed blue, olive, and purple colors meant to resemble "the moorland landscapes of the Westcountry." www.blackeryarns.co.uk

7 Dazzling Crystaletts Pins are removable stitch markers that really catch the eye. The crystals will sparkle against your knitting, and the quality silver will keep the markers in good shape for a long time to come. They come in rainbow or gold. www.crystaletts.com

Old Tools, New Tones

❶ The nøstepinne is an old-school tool for winding a center-pull ball. The yarn is wound onto the wooden stick using a figure-eight method. You can find nøstepinnes like this one on Etsy or purchase one from The Woolery.

www.woolery.com

❷ The niddy-noddy is another yarn-winding tool with a fun name, one that makes skeins. Yarn is loaded onto the crossarms in a repeated pattern, then tied off and twisted into a skein. This niddy-noddy from Schacht Spindle Company has an adjustable length.

www.schachtspindle.com

❹ Sesia Bimbo is a fingering-weight cotton yarn. The fifty-gram balls lend themselves well to baby projects in spring colors. Distributed by Plymouth Yarn.

www.plymouthyarn.com

American Wool from the Great Plains: Brown Sheep Yarn Company

BY AMY PALMER

As you drive from Colorado to Mitchell, Nebraska, you see the land change—untamed, broken vistas. It is the Great Plains, with a wild beauty and long stretches of highway. In the midst of this territory in far western Nebraska is Brown Sheep Yarn Company's headquarters, which I visited in October 2014.

ALL PHOTOS BY AMY PALMER

The mill is nestled near Scottsbluff National Monument, on prairie lands shadowed by towering cliffs. This land has been in owner Peggy Wells's family for more than one hundred years—her great-grandfather purchased the acreage in 1910. For half a century, the family farmed the land and raised a small flock of sheep, a legacy that has led to the creation of one of the most recognizable American yarn brands on the market.

Changes in the agricultural markets in the 1970s forced Peggy's father to find new uses for the land. When Peggy requested an Ashford spinning wheel for Christmas in 1974, she inadvertently set the family on its present course. After watching his daughter at work, her father also took to spinning, and in 1978, he followed that up with a loom for weaving the wool from his flock. A few years later, he purchased his first set of used mill equipment from a defunct mill in Georgia and set up the Brown Sheep offices.

Peggy moved to Fort Collins, Colorado, and worked as a custom fashion designer with a strong investment in natural fibers. In 1998, she and her husband, Robert, moved their family back to Mitchell to take over the running of the mill, expanding their idea of "family" to include the mill employees. Today, about thirty men and women work for the company, some of whom have been "in the family" for more than twenty years.

In 2004, as the machinery her father had purchased was living out the last of its days, Peggy made the decision to purchase new equipment. When the state-of-the-art equipment was introduced, the increased production efficiencies allowed Brown Sheep to expand to the thirteen yarn lines that are manufactured at the mill, all worsted spun and all containing fibers sourced from the United States.

Much of the wool comes from ranches in Colorado and Wyoming. The fiber is scoured and carded at an outside facility before arriving at the Nebraska mill. When I visited, the blender was mixing the fibers for Lamb's Pride, a blend of 85% wool and 15% mohair. The fibers are then spun, bobbined, coned, plied, and steamed to set the twist.

The newly minted yarn is then sent to the dye vats. Although Peggy loves to be involved in every step of the process, creating the colors is one of her favorites. After dyeing, the yarn moves to a radial dryer, a fast and ecologically friendly method of drying the yarn. Peggy and Robert are highly conscientious about the impact of the mill on the family's land. Robert, a radiation biologist by education, created a reverse osmosis system to clean up to 90% of the water used in processing the yarn, lowering energy costs and water uses. The finished yarn is sold wholesale to yarn shops around the country and increasingly around the globe.

The focus of Brown Sheep has always been to provide quality yarn, while helping the handknitting industry grow as well. The company has supplied yarn to 4-H groups, encouraging the next generation to take to yarn crafts, and it has been a constant supporter of the burgeoning Scotts Bluff Valley Fiber Arts Fair. At the same time, the company has expanded to working with the apparel industry, including such high-profile companies as Ralph Lauren. Although the company is steeped in tradition, Peggy and her Brown Sheep family constantly look to the future.

Wool at Work: The Utilitarian Yarns of Seafarer Sarah Lake Upton

BY SELMA MOSS-WARD

I: ON WATER

Like many fiber artisans, independent dyer Sarah Lake Upton, of Upton Yarns ([www.upton yarns.com](http://www.upton yarns.com)), has a day job to facilitate her yarn vocation . . . except it's actually a six-weeks-at-a-time job, about three thousand miles from home. She's an assistant engineer aboard the National Geographic Sea Lion, an eco-cruise ship whose itineraries range from Alaska to Baja, California, Panama, and Costa Rica.

During these tours, Sarah's work involves maintenance, diagnostics, and dealing with whatever weather, water, and mechanics throw at the vessel. She doesn't get much sleep. Aboard the Sea Lion, Sarah is constantly mindful of surrounding natural forces and of the teamwork essential to smooth sailing.

Her job is about as far from yarn as you can imagine.

"The work is hard, physically demanding, sometimes lonely, and the ship's crew is a community that becomes your protective shell," the thirty-seven-year-old explains. Nonetheless, she appreciates the stunning phenomena—wilderness, wildlife, glaciers, bioluminescence—that are the rewards of the eco-tours, rewards that provide thrilling "moments of grace, when everything comes together."

At six weeks' end, Sarah flies west coast to east coast—to Portland, Maine, where she lives with husband, Sam, and their dog, Nell. She catches up on sleep, then re-enters the world of her vocation, the world of highly specialized hand-dyed yarn. "I love wool," Sarah says. "Yarn has so many different properties. My pet peeve is the idea that for knitting all your yarn should be soft."

But who wouldn't want soft yarn? Sarah's answer is rooted in both her love of gansey sweaters and her Yankee practicality. An interest in cultural history, a college degree in anthropology, archaeological fieldwork, and employment on traditionally rigged ships, taught her the value of durable fibers. In her early twenties, she knitted her first gansey, following Beth Brown-Reinsel's pattern in Melanie Falick's benchmark volume, Knitting in America (Artisan Press, 1996). “I had never seen anything like it—the fit, the motifs, the genius little armpit gussets; I loved the combination of decorative and utilitarian.”

Ganseys, originating in nineteenth-century coastal Britain, were designed for seafarers. Tightly knitted of five-ply yarn, they're water-resistant, workhorse sweaters: “They're like protective armor,” Sarah says, adding, “Their real important quality is that they don't lose shape or impede range of motion when wet. From the perspective of working on a boat, that is very, very nice.” As with many garments from traditional cultures, the decorative motifs convey specific meanings, and it's customary for the wearer's initials to be knitted into the sweater's front, near the waist. Nonetheless, ganseys are primarily utilitarian gear.

What Sarah wanted was abrasion-resistant, water-resistant yarn, spun specifically for ganseys she'd wear aboard ship. All-American gansey yarn wasn't available. “As much as I loved British yarn and American yarn spun from New Zealand or Bolivian wool, New England is still full of sheep, and it drove me nuts that I couldn't find any yarn made from these sheep.”

Sarah's original gansey was worn so hard that she re-knitted the cuffs almost every year, and the neck at least twice. “The elbows finally went in 2011,” she reports. About that time, she discovered a nineteenth-century photo of a man wearing a gansey with cut-off sleeves. “Rather than trying to patch the elbows, I'm thinking about doing this to my gansey,” she says, drawn to this useful historical precedent.

That first gansey launched a mission leading to a nuanced knowledge of local yarns' best uses. “Different breeds of sheep produce fleece with different qualities: strength, softness, luminosity. Matching the project to the correct wool type can make all the difference between a garment one likes well enough and a garment one wears every day.” Currently, Sarah works with yarns created from sheep that are either pure or crossbred Coopworth, Corriedale, Romney, Cotswold, and Montedale fleece.

Ultimately, Sarah's ideal gansey yarn was spun from Coopworth wool, from a farm in Maine. “I am making the yarn that I really wanted to be able to buy,” she cheerfully declares. She calls what Upton Yarns produces “utilitarian wools.” Her five-ply Coopworth gansey yarn, whose long staple renders it stronger than conventional yarns, comes in 120-yard (110-meter) skeins (learn more on page 16).

II: ON LAND

A short bike ride from her apartment is Sarah's dye studio—part of a communal workspace for textile artisans called A Gathering of Stitches (www.agatheringofstitches.com). Its open, well-lighted interior feels simultaneously calm, energetic, and inspirational. There,

A pair of mitts worked in Upton Yarns 3-Ply Coopworth, also shown here in skein form.

Yarns dyed with madder and lac.

Sarah dyes, rinses, dries, and skeins her yarns, sourced entirely from New England farms and spun to her specifications by local mills. When dyed, the Coopworth gansey yarn projects a surprising radiance. Who would dream that such yarn could be as lustrous as it is strong?

The Coopworth comes in sportweight as well as gansey-ply. (Sarah often tries out different fiber blends, and you can keep abreast of what's new by checking the Upton Yarns website frequently.) All the dyed yarns (she sells undyed skeins, too) are intensely colored—glowing tones resulting from natural dyestuffs, such as indigo, madder, lac, and walnut.

At A Gathering of Stitches, I watched Sarah work with madder and lac—immersing virgin skeins in pots of dye-infused water heating on electric burners. In dyeing, everything is significant—fiber, ratio of dye to water, water quality, temperature, length of immersion. The yarn, when removed, is rinsed; sometimes it's redyed. It's then hung to air-dry. Sarah's unusual schedule limits her time in the studio, so her lots are small and unique. (If you like an Upton Yarn, grab more than you think you'll need; all colors sell fast.)

III: ON YARN MAGIC

"Every step in yarn production can be magical. A knitted object is a wondrous, talismanic thing," Sarah says. "How do you express this without sounding airy-fairy?" She sounds, actually, like the practical visionary she is—part engineer, part William Morris utopian, who sees in every knitted garment links to a greater community—to the sheep, farmers, mills, dye producers, knitters, wearers, to the role of textiles in human history. "A handknitted sweater is both a huge made manifest and a tie to tradition."

Handwork, Sarah believes, should be honored with appropriate materials. Consider that we put so much effort and love into our knitting. Don't we want it to last? What if, for instance, we knitted the stress points of clothes—toes, heels, necks, elbows, and cuffs—with a super-durable yarn that's also, serendipitously, gorgeous? What if we knitted entire garments with such yarn? It was by chance, perhaps, that Sarah's quest for the perfect gansey yarn led her to develop a line of utilitarian hand-dyed yarns. Yet chance favors the prepared mind, as scientist Louis Pasteur once noted, and the birth of Upton Yarns couldn't have happened if Sarah hadn't been the complex person she already was: seafarer, engineer, anthropologist, historian, and New England knitter.

Traditional Five-Ply Gansey Wools

As Sarah Lake Upton discovered in her search for the perfect gansey yarn (see pages 12–14), the type of yarn traditionally used in these hardy fishermen’s sweaters is relatively rare. Used in coastal England (and also in some countries across the North Sea) in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, gansey wool is a worsted-spun, high-twist sportweight yarn constructed of five plies. Yes, that is very specific. Knitted very densely on size 1 or 2 needles (2.25 or 2.75 mm), this yarn makes for a warm, wind- and water-resistant sweater that is highly functional but that also, because of the high twist of the yarn and the gauge, allows for rich texture patterning. You’re probably familiar with the iconic gansey, with its knit and purl nautical motifs, rope cables, and panels of low-relief texture. A few manufacturers are still making gansey yarn; we present three in brief below. The two British yarns can be purchased online and shipped to the United States.

1 WENDY GUERNSEY 5-PLY

Made in West Yorkshire, England, this wool is hardy, with a slight, toothy halo of short hairs, which makes it warm and inviting. Even with the high twist, it doesn’t kink up as you knit. Because of its high twist and dense body, this yarn doesn’t bloom or fill out (at least not without washing), so it works best on small needles in a firm gauge, to keep stitches even looking, to avoid gaps between knits and purls, and to really create a raised texture in purl patterning. The color range is limited, but does include the classic fisherman palette: navy, medium blue, red, and cream. Available online at www.loveknitting.com.

2 FRANGIPANI 5-PLY GUERNSEY WOOL

This English yarn comes in twenty-six colors and is sold by the cone—which means far fewer ends to weave in, especially if you work your gansey in the round (the traditional way). In the hands and on the needles, it is a fairly fine sportweight; size 1 (2.25 mm) needles really seem most suitable for it. It makes a dense but handsome fabric that shows texture beautifully. Skeining the yarn and washing it does cause it to bloom quite a bit, in which case you might want to go up a needle size. Available online at www.guernseywool.co.uk.

3 UPTON YARNS COOPWORTH 5-PLY GANSEY

Made with wool from New England sheep by a real gansey-donning seamstress, this yarn has a unique story—read about Sarah Lake Upton and her mission to make the perfect gansey wool on page 12. Her Coopworth 5-Ply is lustrous, rugged, and makes a rich fabric that belies its utilitarian nature. The undyed yarn is a natural heathered gray; the yarn is also available in natural dyes. After the yarn is dyed, the resulting color has lovely depth and retains some of the heathered quality. This yarn does well on a range of needle sizes. Quantities are limited and released a couple of times a year—Sarah also takes custom dye orders. Available online at www.uptonyarns.com.

Other yarns to consider: These sportweights are not five-ply, but do work well in texture patterns and are generally softer and more widely available than the above yarns.

PERFECTICULAR

Knitted-on edgings adorn otherwise simple spring knits.

Unlike the other two shawls in this collection—which are worked top down in long rows shaped with short-rows—the Potter's Shawl begins with a small number of stitches and increases from the top down. At the bottom of the garter body, a perpendicular lace edging is worked along the live stitches. Jen Lucas. PAGE 22. YARN Shalimar Yarns Breathless

Beginning with a frilled cast-on that creates a picot edge, the Ribbon Tool Shawl is nearly identical on both sides. It is worked top-down in garter stitch and short-rows, then a perpendicular edging is worked along the bottom, with stitches between body and edging joined with decreases. Kit available for a limited time; visit shop.knittingdaily.com. Carol Feller. PAGE 23. YARN Dragonfly Fibers Pixie

The roomy Velum Cardigan is worked in one piece, beginning at the lower edge of the back. Once the back and fronts are worked, stitches for the edging are cast on and then worked in lace all around the body, joining the narrow lace band by picking up stitches along the body and decreasing the two pieces together. Maria Leigh. YARN Brown Sheep Company Cotton Fleece Worked top down in stockinette shaped with short-rows, the Beech Leaf Shawl features a wide, scarflike shape and a leaf-inspired lace edging. The edging stitches are cast on and then joined at the end of each row to the live stitches at the bottom of the shawl body.

UNDERSTANDING Perpendicular & Parallel KNITTED-ON EDGINGS

A knitted-on edging is one that is joined as it is worked to the larger body of a project. These edgings often have a perpendicular orientation to the body; you join the edging rows to the body stitches. But you'll also see many designs in which the edging is worked parallel to the body of the work; and some projects call for an edging that rounds the perimeter, shifting from perpendicular to parallel orientation. The knitted-on technique eliminates sewing and is ideal for shawls, though you can also use it in garments and home décor items.

You always work a knitted-on edging once the body of the project is complete. The key to any knitted-on edging is a decrease that is used to join the edging to the body; this decrease occurs at the end of every other edging row as the edging is worked alongside the completed body.

WORKING WITH LIVE STITCHES

The Beech Leaf Shawl (see above and Swatch 1) is worked from the top down, and stitches at the bottom edge are left live—you will join the edging to those live stitches. This is a typical example of a knitted-on edging worked into live stitches. Once the body is complete, you end with a right-side row and cast 16 stitches onto the end of the row. You work in lace and at the end of each wrong-side row, join the last stitch of the edging to the first stitch of the body by working a p2tog over those two stitches, then turning to work the right side of the edging. In this way, there are two rows of edging for every one stitch of the body—a right-side row worked even, and a wrong-side row that ends with a joining decrease. The body stitches are gradually consumed as the edging continues, and at the end the only remaining stitches are the edging stitches, which are bound off.

Many edgings are garter-stitch based, which means the lace patterning is worked on a ground of garter stitch, versus stockinette. Garter stitch has a compressed row gauge; each row is about half as high as each stitch is wide. The Potter's Shawl gets four stitches and nine rows to 1" in garter, for instance. This is ideal for perpendicular knitted-on edgings, in which two rows of edging have to fit into the space of one stitch of the body. In stockinette, rows are taller, which would make for less equivalence in the edging-to-body ratio.

You can work this same method over a project that begins with a provisional cast-on, joining the edging to the live stitches of the cast-on.

WORKING WITH PICKED UP STITCHES

You can also work a knitted-on edging onto an edge without live stitches. You could pick up and knit stitches along a selvedge, cast-on, or bind-off edge, and then work an edging, joining to those live stitches as explained above. Or, for a quicker option, you can pick up stitches as you work the edging, working the edging and join simultaneously.

In the Velum Cardigan (see Swatch 2 and photo on next page), the edging is worked over five stitches. At the end of each right-side row, you slip the last stitch of the edging, then pick up and knit a stitch along the sweater selvedge, then knit that new stitch and the slipped edging stitch together through the back loops (essentially an ssk). Those ssk stitches serve to join the edging to the selvedge. This is a great example of a picked-up knitted-on edging worked parallel to the main body of the project (joining row to row).

You can also work a picked-up knitted-on edging along a cast-on or bind-off edge, in which case the edging would have a perpendicular orientation to the body.

Swatch 1

The Beech Leaf Shawl (see page 21) is worked top down and finished with a perpendicular knitted-on lace edging. You can see that the edging stitches make a 90-degree angle with the body stitches.

Swatch 2

The Velum Cardigan (see page 20) features a narrow knitted-on edging that is worked parallel to the body of the sweater; the edging is joined to every other row of the sweater selvedge.

360 DEGREES

For a project, such as a rectangular shawl, that has two side selvages and cast-on and bind-off edges, you can use a combination of perpendicular and parallel edgings to edge the entire perimeter. The corners will require special treatment, however. Your options are as follows:

- Work each side separately and graft or seam the corners together.
- If you choose Option 1, you can also work increases or short-rows at the ends of each edging to create a trapezoid shape to each side, allowing for mitered joins when you seam the corners.
- If the edging pattern is very simple, you can work the whole edging in one piece, switching from perpendicular to parallel edgings, and work short-rows at each corner to make a mitered corner.
- If the edging is very simple, you can work multiple joining stitches into the same space of the corner, as you would with a crochet edging (two–three joins max; experiment with your yarn and gauge).
- Pick up and knit stitches around entire piece and work in the round, working double increases at each corner to create a mitered corner (think of a wooden picture frame).

Keep in mind, for any of these options, that the nature of your edging pattern will greatly affect your options. Many edgings, such as Swatch 1 here, create wide, undulating fabrics that have horizontal spread out from the body of the project. They also have complex lace patterning happening; working short-rows or further shaping within these patterns will be difficult. You should limit 360-degree edgings to narrow, simple patterns with brief row repeats.

THE MATH

Planning for an edging begins before you cast on any stitches. If you're working a shawl that ends with live stitches, you will need to end with a number of stitches that works with the row repeat of the edging pattern. Remember, in a perpendicular edging, you work two rows of edging for every one stitch of the body. If the repeat of the edging is eight rows, then your body stitch count needs to be a multiple of four (half of the row repeat of the edging). If your edging begins or ends with any base rows that aren't part of the repeat, you will need to figure that into your body stitch count (multiple of four + three, for instance).

If you're working a parallel edging along the selvage of a project, your row count in the body will, again, need to be a multiple of half the row repeat of the edging. (Generally, you skip every other row when joining an edge to a selvedge.) If your pattern, due to gauge considerations, calls for joining the edge into every row, then the row count of your body will need to be the same number as the row repeat of the edging.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

A lot of edged patterns, and therefore the concepts discussed here, are based on a stockinette body and garter edging. You often see stockinette-based lace shawls edged with garter-based lace edgings, for instance. Lace has a big effect on gauge, and the blocking that lace goes through also affects gauge and final appearance. In more dense patterns, such as a garter-stitch body without any yarnover patterning, you will need to adjust your approach to edgings. Swatch before you jump into any project that you plan to edge—tweaks may be as simple as changing needle size for the edging or involve more complex adjustments.

You can work an edging all the way around a project, shifting between parallel and perpendicular orientations. One set of short-rows was used within the edging to turn the corner in this swatch, which does not significantly interrupt the simple lace pattern.

A leaf lace corrugated with purl ribs makes a fabric that hugs curves. The Rheya Cardigan focuses on fit throughout—the set-in sleeve is worked in the round, then divided for the cap. Narrow shoulders and waist-shaping complete the tailored look. Maria Leigh. PAGE 76. YARN Cascade Yarns Heritage Solids

Tailored

When it comes to fit, there's no substitute for the set-in sleeve. The style does require more advanced shaping and finishing skills, but once you're familiar with the concepts and techniques, it allows for more customization than any other sweater construction. If you want to learn more about set-in sleeves, one of the best tutorials on the topic was published in the Winter 2007 issue of Interweave Knits, which you can find online at interweavestore.com.

A trim little sweater in allover lace, the Corcoran Pullover is worked flat in pieces with traditional set-in sleeves. A 50/50 blend of organic cotton and merino with a plump strand makes for slight color variation and a crisp, cool hand in the fabric. Patty Lyons.

PAGE 78. YARN Classic Elite Yarns Chesapeake

In a gorgeous blend of llama, silk, and linen, the Miranda Cardigan is a delightful spring classic. Worked seamlessly from the top down, the one-piece construction includes the set-in sleeves, which are shaped at the cap with short-rows. Amy Gunderson.

In the Gibraltar Henley, sleeves are worked right onto the body of the sweater. Stitches are picked up around the armhole, and the set-in cap shaping is achieved with short-rows. Below the underarm, the sleeve is worked in the round to the cuff. This design gives you the fit of a set-in, without the seaming.

Joan Forgione. PAGE 82. YARN Mrs. Crosby Hat Box, distributed by Lorna's Laces

Traditional set-in sleeves receive a little help from the crown effect of a pretty stitch pattern. The stitch creates a scallop at the cuff and a “puff” at the top that lends itself to the cap’s bell shape. The otherwise clean lines of the Honey Pullover make this detail a focal point. Angela Hahn.

NOTES

- The body of this sweater is worked back and forth in one piece from the lower edge to the underarm, then the upper fronts and back are worked separately. The sleeves are worked separately in the round with the sleeve cap worked flat.
- The lace pattern pulls in like a rib. The schematic measurements were calculated using the stretched gauge, as the garment will be when worn.
- When working the armhole and neck shaping, if a yarnover or decrease in the lace pattern is removed, do not work its corresponding decrease or yarnover; work these stitches in stockinette stitch instead (or work a single decrease in place of a double decrease if only one yarnover has been removed).
- A circular needle is used to accommodate the large number of stitches.

- This pullover is worked back and forth in separate pieces and seamed.
- When increasing and decreasing in the lace pattern, keep at least one stitch in stockinette stitch at the edge for seaming. Work the stitches of partial repeats into the lace pattern when they are available; however, do not work a double yarnover unless there are enough stitches to work the corresponding decreases. When working shaping, be sure to maintain proper stitch count by pairing each patterned yarnover with its corresponding decrease. If this is not possible because of the current stitch count, work in stockinette stitch instead. See the Sidebar, page 79, for more information.

MIRANDA CARDIGAN

Amy Gunderson

Finished Size 32½ (36, 40, 44, 47½, 51½)" bust circumference. Cardigan shown measures 32½", modeled with ½" of negative ease.

NOTES

- This cardigan is worked back and forth from the top down. First, the left back collar and left front are worked to the underarm. These stitches are placed on a holder and then stitches are picked up from the cast-on edge of the left collar and the right back collar and right front are worked to the underarm. Stitches for the back are picked up along the left and right collars and shoulders and the back is worked to the underarm. Then all the pieces are joined and the remainder of the cardigan body is worked in one piece to the lower edge. The sleeves are picked up around the armhole and worked in the round from the top down.

- A circular needle is used to accommodate the large number of stitches.

- Use removable markers for sides and darts.

Neckband: With smallest cir needle and RS facing, beg at top right neck edge and pick up and knit 39 (41, 41, 44, 44) sts along right neck edge, 67 (69, 72, 75, 75) sts along back neck edge, and 39 (41, 41, 44, 44) sts along left front neck edge—145 (151, 154, 163, 163) sts. Next row (WS) K1, *p2, k1; rep from * to end. Cont in rib patt for ¾". BO all sts in patt.

Buttonhole band: With smallest cir needle and RS facing, beg at bottom of right placket opening, pick up and knit 25 sts along placket edge. Next row (WS) K1, *p2, k1; rep from * to end. Cont in rib patt for 2 more rows. On next RS row, work first 4 sts. Drop yarn but do not break.

From the other end of the ball, cut three 8" lengths of yarn. With first length of yarn, work next 9 sts. Drop yarn. With next length of yarn, work next 9 sts. Drop yarn. With final length of yarn, work rem 3 sts. Turn work. Work each WS section with the accompanying length of yarn used on previous row. Turn work. Abandoning all lengths of yarn, work across all buttonholes with yarn attached to ball for 2 more rows. BO all sts in patt. Sew band selvedge edges to base of placket, with buttonhole band on top. Sew buttons to band opposite buttonhole band. Weave in ends. Block.

HONEY PULLOVER

Angela Hahn

Finished Size 36½ (40½, 44½, 48, 51½)" bust circumference. Pullover shown measures 36½", modeled with 3½" of positive ease.

Yarn Valley Yarns Southwick (52% pima cotton, 48% bamboo; 105 yd [92 m]/1¼ oz [50 g]); #24 yellow, 10 (11, 12, 13, 14) skeins.

Yarn distributed by WEBS.

Needles Hem—size 5 (3.75 mm): 24–40" circular (cir), depending on size you are making. Body and sleeves—size 6 (4 mm): 24–40" cir and set of double-pointed (dpn). Adjust needle size if necessary to obtain the correct gauge.

Notions Markers (m); stitch holders; tapestry needle.

Gauge 21 sts and 28 rows = 4" in St st on larger needle; 25 sts = about 4" in lace patt on larger needle.

? See the Glossary on page 99 for terms you don't know. For our master glossary, visit KnittingDaily.com/glossary.

NOTES

- This pullover is worked in the round to the underarms, then the upper front and back are worked separately back and forth. The sleeves are worked in the round, with the sleeve caps worked flat.
- The Lace chart is worked both in rounds and back and forth in rows. The stitch count of the chart increases by two on every odd-numbered round and decreases back to the original number on the next even-numbered round. The increases in the chart are not included in the stitch counts.

SIMPLE, SOPHISTICATED Knitted Garments

Heather Zoppetti
144 pages, $24.99
ISBN 13: 9781620331354

Full of simple garments and accessories for everyday life, this book will become your new favorite! In this collection of 18 garments and accessories, using lace motifs for edging is only the beginning. Join Heather Zoppetti as she shows you how lace can be easily incorporated into feminine garments meant for daily wear: as a simple panel insert, as edgings and bands, and in an increasingly all-over manner. Hidden among the collection of lovely garments is a thorough introduction to the basics of lace knitting, including various cast-ons and bind-offs appropriate for lace knitting.

25 KNITTED ACCESSORIES

to wear and share

The first in a new series, Interweave Favorites: 25 Knitted Accessories to Wear and Share is a collection of cozy patterns carefully curated from Interweave's roster of incredible authors and designers and brought together in a single book! Knitters of all levels will find plenty of standout projects to make and love, from warm socks to delicate shawls; from colorful mitts to scarf and hat sets. Most projects can be knitted speedily enough to become timely gifts, while a few—such as an Estonian lace shawl—require more time (but are worth it).

WHAT WOULD Jane KNIT?

Enter the world of Jane Austen through timeless knitting patterns inspired by the places and characters in her beloved novels.

The gorgeously evocative pieces include cardigans, knitted shawls, bags, and other accessories, as well as knitted projects for men and children. While the projects are inspired by the fashions of 200 years ago, they are every bit as relevant today. Knitters obsessed with Jane Austen as well as stitchers just looking for wonderfully appealing projects will fall in love with these beautiful designs.

Backward-Loop Cast-On

*Loop working yarn as shown and place it on needle backward (with right leg of loop in back of needle). Repeat from *.

Cable Cast-On

Figure 1

Crochet Chain (Provisional) Cast-On

With smooth, contrasting waste yarn and crochet hook, make a loose chain of about four stitches more than you need to cast on. Cut yarn and pull tail through last chain to secure. With needle, working yarn, and beginning two stitches from last chain worked, pick up and knit one stitch through the back loop of each chain (Figure 1) for desired number of stitches. Work the piece as desired, and when you're ready to use the cast-on stitches, pull out the crochet chain to expose the live stitches (Figure 2).

Duplicate Stitch

Horizontal: Bring threaded needle out from back to front at the base of the V of the knitted stitch you want to cover. *Working right to left, pass needle in and out under the stitch in the row above it and back into the base of the same stitch. Bring needle back out at the base of the V of the next stitch to the left. Repeat from *.

Vertical: Beginning at lowest point, work as for horizontal duplicate stitch, ending by bringing the needle back out at the base of the stitch directly above the stitch just worked.

I-Cord

With double-pointed needle, cast on desired number of stitches. *Without turning the needle, slide the stitches to other end of the needle, pull the yarn around the back, and knit the stitches as usual; repeat from * for desired length.

I-Cord (Applied)

When attaching to an edge without live stitches: With double-pointed needle, cast on number of stitches directed in pattern. With right side of garment facing, *pick up and knit one stitch from edge, slide stitches to opposite end of double-pointed needle, knit to last two stitches, knit two together through the back loop; repeat from * for I-cord.

glossary

I-Cord Bind-Off

When there are live stitches or picked-up stitches on left needle: With right side facing, cast on number of stitches needed for I-cord (as directed in pattern) onto left needle. *Knit to last I-cord stitch (e.g., if working a two-stitch I-cord, knit one), knit two together through the back loops (Figures 1 and 2), and transfer all stitches from right needle to left needle (Figure 3). Repeat from * until required number of stitches has been bound off.

Figure 3

Kitchener Stitch (St st Grafting)

Step 1: Bring threaded needle through front stitch as if to purl and leave stitch on needle.

Step 2: Bring threaded needle through back stitch as if to knit and leave stitch on needle.

Step 3: Bring threaded needle through first front stitch as if to knit and slip this stitch off needle. Bring threaded needle through next front stitch as if to purl and leave stitch on needle.

Step 4: Bring threaded needle through first back stitch as if to purl (as illustrated), slip this stitch off, bring needle through next back stitch as if to knit, leave this stitch on needle.

Repeat Steps 3 and 4 until no stitches remain on needles.

Knitted Cast-On

Place slipknot on left needle if there are no established stitches. *With right needle, knit into first stitch (or slipknot) on left needle (Figure 1) and place new stitch onto left needle (Figure 2). Repeat from *, always knitting into last stitch made.

Figure 2

Lifted Increase (RLI, RLPI, LLI, LLPI)

Right (RLI)

Knit into the back of stitch (in the “purl bump”) in the row directly below the stitch on the left needle.

Purl (RLPI)

Left (LLI)

Purl (LLPI)

Purl into the stitch below the stitch just purred.

Knit this stitch.

Make 1 (M1) Increases

Left Slant (M1L) and Standard M1

With left needle tip, lift strand between needles from front to back (Figure 1). Knit lifted loop through the back (Figure 2).

Right Slant (M1R)

With left needle tip, lift strand between needles from back to front (Figure 1). Knit lifted loop through the front (Figure 2).

Purl (M1P)

For purl versions, work as above, purling lifted loop.

Provisional Cast-On

Place a loose slipknot on needle held in your right hand. Hold waste yarn next to slipknot and around left thumb; hold working yarn over left index finger. *Bring needle forward under waste yarn, over working yarn, grab a loop of working yarn (Figure 1), then bring needle to the front, over both yarns, and grab a second loop (Figure 2). Repeat from *. When you're ready to use the cast-on stitches, pick out waste yarn to expose live stitches.

Sewn Bind-Off

Cut the yarn three times the width of the knitting to be bound off, and thread onto a tapestry needle. Working from right to left, *insert tapestry needle purlwise (from right to left) through first two stitches (Figure 1) and pull the yarn through, then bring needle knitwise (from left to right) through the first stitch (Figure 2), pull the yarn through, and slip this stitch off the knitting needle. Repeat from *.

Short-Rows (Knit Side)

Work to turning point, slip next stitch purlwise (Figure 1), bring the yarn to the front, then slip the same stitch back to the left needle (Figure 2), turn the work around and bring the yarn in position for the next stitch—one stitch has been wrapped and the yarn is correctly positioned to work the next stitch. When you come to a wrapped stitch on a subsequent knit row, hide the wrap by working it together with the wrapped stitch as follows: insert right needle tip under the wrap from the front; (Figure 3), then into the stitch on the needle, and work the stitch and its wrap together as a single stitch.

Short-Rows (Purl Side)

Work to the turning point, slip the next stitch purlwise to the right needle, bring the yarn to the back of the work (Figure 1), return the slipped stitch to the left needle, bring the yarn to the front between the needles (Figure 2), and turn the work so that the knit side is facing—one stitch has been wrapped and the yarn is correctly positioned to knit the next stitch. To hide the wrap on a subsequent purl row, work to the wrapped stitch, use the tip of the right needle to pick up the wrap from the back, place it on the left needle (Figure 3), then purl it together with the wrapped stitch.

Figure 3

Sssk (Double Decrease)

Slip three stitches knitwise one at a time. Insert point of left needle into front of three slipped stitches and knit them together with right needle—three stitches reduced to one.

Ssp (Single Decrease)

Holding yarn in front, slip two stitches knitwise one at a time onto right needle (Figure 1). Slip them back onto left needle and purl the two stitches together through back loops (Figure 2).

Three-Needle Bind-Off

Place stitches to be joined onto two separate needles. Hold them with right sides of knitting facing together. Insert a third needle into first stitch on each of the other two needles and knit them together as one stitch. *Knit next stitch on each needle the same way. Pass first stitch over second stitch. Repeat from * until one stitch remains on third needle. Cut yarn and pull tail through last stitch.

Ease into knitting sweaters, seamlessly!

Through clever planning and some simple techniques, projects are shaped and joined during knitting—all without sacrificing the pretty details. No-Sew Knits offers 20 garments that combine easy construction techniques and on-trend comfortable styling for everyday wear. While many sweaters are based on simple raglan and yoke constructions, author Kristen takes the opportunity to introduce you to a variety of other easier-than-they-seem techniques, while keeping the patterns approachable for advanced beginners. Chapters are focused around the elements of stitch patterns, cables, and lace. The resulting pieces are beautifully constructed garments that boast eye-catching details!

New Twists: On Set at Knitting Daily TV

BY LOUISA DEMMITT

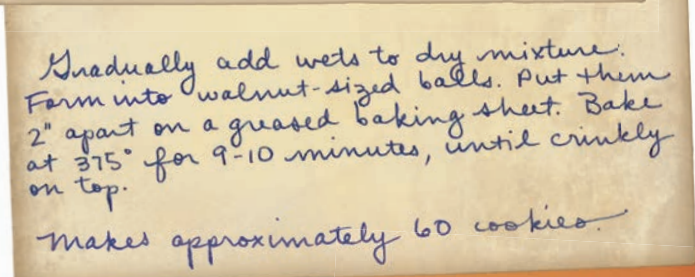

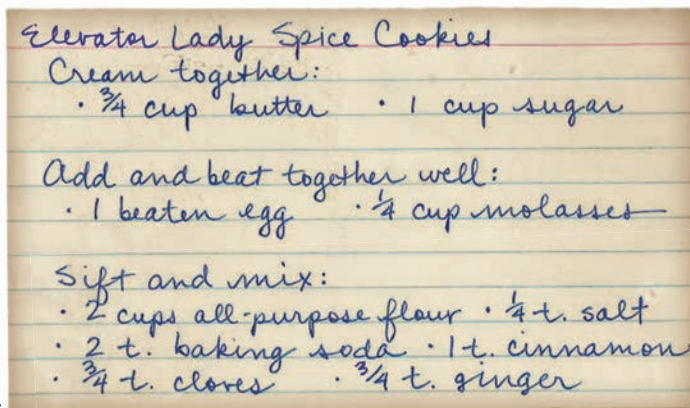

For the past three seasons, I've worked behind the scenes on the PBS television series Knitting Daily TV. Working on TV is completely different from my day-to-day job (assistant editor of Knitscene magazine), and I've looked forward to each taping. I've met really interesting and creative people over the years: the crew, the directors, the producers, the guests who appear on the show, and terrific host Vickie Howell. Working in craft media is a big adventure!

For series 1400, I was also asked to be a guest onscreen. I appear in two episodes, but the one I focus on here is 1406: Accessorize It! Designer Annie Watts's brilliantly colored Siena Mittens had appeared in the winter issue of Knitscene, and she agreed to let me demonstrate the technique that sets them off: marling. You hold two strands of different colors of yarn together and switch the colors out one at a time for color variations. Doing so creates a beautiful variegated look that is simple to execute, one you can use to bring excitement to many projects.

I was nervous—to say the least—before taping. This was national television, and I'm just Louisa from Colorado. I worked with Knitscene Editor Amy Palmer to come up with some basic talking points. I then knitted step-outs to demonstrate the key points of the pattern. Designer and teacher Tanis Gray was at the taping, and she and I walked through the segment—several times! She timed me, gave me pointers, and on one walk-through pretended to be Vickie Howell, asking questions and pointing out interesting parts of the pattern and technique.

I had gotten to know some of the crew members over the past seasons of the show—when the cameras aren't rolling, there's a lot of casual conversation—sports, restaurant and movie recommendations, and more. The guys behind the cameras all promised to be extra nice to me while I was filming, and they were true to their word. They were encouraging and smiled a lot, which helped calm my jitters. And Vickie was engaging, vivacious, and so much fun. She knows how to put people at ease, how to ask questions directly and with enthusiasm, and how to make the whole experience beautifully cohesive. With this kind of TV taping, you don't rehearse and retape bits over and over. You basically keep going and do everything in one or two takes. For a novice like me, working with a host who can smooth over rough patches and fill silence is a lifesaver.

In my career before Interweave, I was a pastry cook and baker. And if the taping had been in Colorado, I would have baked something for the crew. I can think of no better way to thank people for hard work than homemade baked goods. I know exactly what recipe I would use: Elevator Lady Spice Cookies. This recipe came to my family by way of my godmother, who got the recipe from a Washington, D.C., office building elevator operator. They're a tradition in my family, and baking a batch makes me feel like I'm an excited kid again. Which is exactly how I felt tackling this new role on Knitting Daily TV! Here's my recipe; bake these cookies and have a Knitting Daily TV viewing party—and share some with the people who encourage you most.
