

General Help

This is a simple application to demonstrate the concept of Linear and Circular Convolution. Choose the two signals to be convolved, then perform the convolution to see the output signal. You can also perform circular convolution and compare it with the linear convolution.