

Encounters

From time to time the party will encounter some special situation. During special encounters, a prompt will appear so you may decide what the party would like to try and resolve the situation.

Most encounters are easily handled, but some can be very open as to the choices the party may make. On these occasions you will see a selection bar such as the one below.

In order, from left to right, the option buttons shown are:

- 1) Cast a spell.
- 2) Use a scroll from a PC's scroll case.
- 3) Use an item.
- 4) Perform a physical action.
- 5) Attempt to use special abilities.
- 6) Speak a word.
- 7) Back away from the whole situation. (Not always available)

Not all of these options will be available at all times. If a particular option is not available for that encounter, it will not be shown.

Selecting either of the first two options will cast the spell (or scroll) that you will select, then the outcome of that action will be displayed.

To use an item, you will be given the opportunity to select the item you wish to use in the items window, then just click the USE button.

If you choose to perform a physical action, you will be prompted to select from a list of possible actions. The cursor will display the number of possible choices which you will have to complete a successful action.

If you attempt to use a special ability such as picking locks or climbing walls, a special screen will be displayed. There, you may select the PC and the ability that they will attempt to use. Only those special abilities that apply to the specific situation will be highlighted.

If you choose to speak, you will be prompted to type in exactly what you wish to say. This feature often requires only one word. Complex sentences or phrases are not generally required. For example - If you say the word "Waterford" to the old librarian in town he will respond with what he knows of the old sunken city of Waterford. If you were to type, "What do you know about Waterford" you would get NO response from him.
