

The bank of the valley used to be a very busy place. In the old times, two dozen guards, chiefted by a high-level fighter and a powerful mage, kept guard over the safes and the gold stored here. Nowadays there are only a couple of youngsters serving a guards. The only teller left, an aged clerk, eyes you suspiciously.