

The third level

The air in here is heavy with dust, and there is little precious oxygen.

Moreover, you can't help but feel the presence of something foul, very evil, very close: your skin crawls, and your hair stands straight on the back of your neck. The inhabitants of the Valley are praying for you... still, do keep your eyes open!