

While I'm thinking about it, don't forget to pay attention to your file descriptions too! Since TeleFinder can include descriptions within any file, users get used to seeing meaningful data about the file they are interested in. It only takes a moment to enter the description and makes a big difference to the end user.