

Computer Brains

You will be able to customize the Mac player to your liking (in a registered version) because you can set both the offensive and defensive brains. The settings are about the skill level that I would rate a player using the same tactics that the Mac uses. While at the highest levels the Mac is still quite beatable (I don't make it cheat in any way) it can give you a bit of trouble especially on the smaller boards. As time goes on I will even improve the brain making the Mac one tough hombré.

- Nearly None:
A very simple computer... almost does things at random.

◇ A Little Bit:

Not to bad, this setting allows some challenge.

◇ Average:

Quite a good player.

◇ Fair: Very difficult when set as defensive brain.

Please feel free to comment on Isolation! whenever possible. The only way my software will improve is if the users let me know what they like (and heaven forbid dislike!), and want in my software.

Cheap plug

This is the final space that I have to fill and I will do so by once again encouraging you to register (either what I ask or what you feel it is worth). If you like Isolation! and haven't tried Trek do so! Registered users will get discounts on new products (probably nothing exciting, but something such as a free update ($2 value ooooohhh)) for each product after the first they register. Support shareware authors in their endeavors!