

The July 1949 issue of PRIVATE DETECTIVE STORIES was the last under that title, the title changing with the September 1949 issue to PRIVATE DETECTIVE. It would continue on under this title for a total of 11 issues, until its demise with the December 1950 issue. Although the covers, by this time, were milder than their counterparts of a dozen years before, the cover girls still possessed impressive gravity-defying attributes prominently displayed.
