I Need Your Help!

PopChar version 2.5 uses a new method for working around the incompatibility with Adobe Type Reunion. This new trick should work without checking the "apply patch" option. However, I cannot prove this under all possible circumstances. This is where you might be able to help me.

If you had problems with PopChar and ATR in older versions and these problems are now gone, please send me a brief report. Also, if you happen to encounter new problems, I am of course interested in as many details as possible.
