1.1 Stefan Schulz

Name:      Stefan Schulz
e-Mail:    schulz@rhrk.uni-kl.de Directory: dev
Amiga:     A3000

27 years ago my life on earth began, and a short time later I had the "priviledge" of smelling hospital scent. By now, being an old man ;o), I am student of computer science at the university of Kaiserslautern;
unfortunately already with a two-digit semester counter.

I have been working with the Amiga since 1987 after my old C64 had nothing to offer anymore. Having started with an A500 which still is used then and now today, I am working on an A3000 for quite some time now which should satisfy my needs for a certain amount of time |o).

Computers are my second most loved hobby – my favourite hobby is eating ;o) – and I do all kinds of stuff with it: programming (I guess one or two of my programs are flying around in the nets), composing ("mods", due to the lack of real instruments and the unability to play on anything with real keys – some of them have been published on the Internet and on several CD-ROMs), painting/drawing (although I prefer painting with real crayons).

To avoid being regarded as a computer geek, I'll mention some of my other hobbys ;o). Amongst them are music and science fiction/Fantasy. I'd also like to write a book of my own (nothing scientific) and have it actually published, but up to now there were just two short stories which I posted into some newsgroups of the world of nets (which brings us back to computers ;o)).

            business: eating malayian food :o). (Taken in Melbourne, Australia)
