

This is the re-release of my font Tabatha, patterned after my daughters handwriting. She now writes much better but the font is of a Kindergartener's writing. It has the full character set now also including the elusive apostrophe. Also included is a bold version of the font that I needed for my personal use. Both fonts are in TrueType format and can be installed through Windows 3.1 control panel. The Type 1 versions are available on the DTP Forum here on CompuServe.

As the previous Type 1 these fonts are being distributed via the Shareware method. If you enjoy and use the fonts please send $5. Registered users of the Type 1 versions are entitled to free registration to the TrueType version.

Thank you very much for the few who registered previous versions of my fonts. Hopefully there will be more to come soon.
