

ABC123 - readme.wri

Installation

To install this program, place the files contained in this archive in a single directory. Use Program Manager to add an item to a new or existing group by using the File|New... menu selection.

ABC123 is a program for preschool children to help recognize number and letters by sight and sound. Pressing either a letter or a number on the keyboard will cause the letter and number to be displayed on the screen and the computer will say it, if your computer has properly installed sound hardware like a Sound Blaster.

ABC123 has been extensively tested by our two-year old son Max, who happens to be bilingual French/English speaker, like his mother. The program can be setup to play either English or French sound files from the "Voice" menu. You may also turn the voice feature off by selecting "None" from the "Voice" menu.
