

- We use much when describing a large quantity.
It is usually used in a negative sentence.

Example: There isn't much juice left.

In the affirmative form, much is replaced by a lot of, plenty of or a great deal of.

Example: There's a lot of tea in China.