

Integrating File and Application Services

New file server

To integrate a file server, you need a compatible network layer, such as IPX or IP, and a compatible file-access layer (located in the application layer), such as NCP or SMB.

New application server

To integrate an application server, you need a compatible network layer, such as IPX or IP, and a compatible transport layer, such as SPX or TCP.