TIVOLI TAKES ON APPLICATION MANAGEMENT

Management-ready application
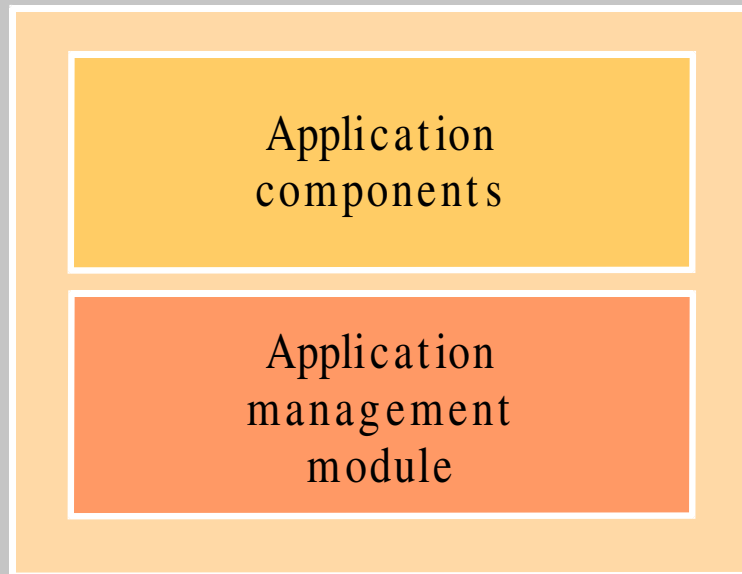

Application components	▶ Base application with management hooks
Application management module	▶ Software distribution ▶ Checking on components on which the application depends ▶ Event monitoring ▶ Administration

Tivoli's Application Management Specification is a blueprint for enabling applications to be managed. Base application components are linked with an application management module, so that an administrator can gain information about the application. The management module and application, packaged together, will send information to an administrator's console.
