

Turner - of whom you have ^{known} heard a little while he was being among you, will one day take his place beside Shakespeare & Verulam, in the annals of the the light of England.

Yes. beside Shakespeare & Verulam. a third star in that central constellation round which in the astronomy of intellect - all other stars make their circuit - ~~Shakespeare is the rock~~ By Shakespeare humanity was uncoiled to you - by Verulam ~~the~~ ^{the principles} of nature - & by Turner ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~features~~ ^{features} of nature - all three were sent to unlock ~~the~~ ^{one of the} gates of light & to unlock it for the first time. But of all the three - though not the greatest - Turner was the most unprecedented in his work. ~~Shakespeare~~ Bacon did - what Aristotle had attempted Shakespeare did perfectly what Archytas did partially imperfectly. - but none before Turner - had ~~looked~~ lifted the veil from the face of nature - the clouds of the hills & forests had received no interpretation, & the clouds just uncoiled from the face of the heaven ~~revelled~~ ^{revelled} they adorned, & of the earth to which they ministered ..
