

Salève cliff - looking north - after climbing half way up between Massueveire and the grande gorge - showing the likeliest part to true vertical stratification. But I believe it is all cleavage.