Law & Order: Justice is Served Game, Set, Murder

5 September 2004 - Mindscape is pleased to announce the latest installment in the 'TV to PC' titles, Law & Order: Justice is Served, a unique blend of field investigation and courtroom trial gameplay based on the award winning TV series. As, in the last Law & Order titles: Dead on the Money and Double or Nothing, Justice is Served offers a singular case to crack. Developed by Legacy Interactive, Law & Order: Justice is Served will be released by Mindscape for the PC in late September, priced at $49.95 incl. GST.

The cast of the show returns to provide voiceovers, helping make the game that much closer to an actual episode from the show. The latest chapter begins when 20-year old tennis star Elena Kusarova shows up dead on the locker room floor the day before the start of the U.S. Open. Elena was big business – and big competition! In the world of professional women's tennis, the competition is fierce and now it seems that the elimination of opponents may take place both on and off the courts. Just like on the hit TV series, you now must follow the evidence, find the killer and bring the perp to justice! As in the earlier games, the interface breaks into several sections to display tools, clues and collected evidence.

Justice is Served has a more complex story, with over 200 pages of additional script from the previous game. With a more user-friendly interface, increased interactivity, twice as many puzzles, and more characters and locations, you'll really feel like your part of the "Law and Order" team.
