Founded in 1976 by Paul de Senneville and Olivier Toussaint, the Delphine Group comprises 11 companies operating in three main sectors: computer games, music (creation and recording), and agencies for acting and modelling. The Delphine Group is one of the few French companies to be recognised at international level.

Flashback alone accounts for 1.25 million copies sold, whilst Moto Racer had sold more than 4.8 million copies in May 1998 (including bundles). Delphine has received many awards for its games, in the USA (including PC Gamer: 'Best Arcade Game of the Year', Playstation Magazine: 'Best Racing Game of the Year'), in Japan, in England, in Germany, in Spain, in Australia and in France (Golden Arrow 1997).
