

Sound Effects and Music Loops for Multimedia

These CD-ROMs are a must have for anyone who owns Sound Companion, HyperStudio, Kid Pix, mPower, Kid Works or Digital Chisel. These sounds can be copied and pasted right into the audio you record on your computer. As an example your students can record themselves describing their local city. Using Sound Companion and the street sounds from Sound Effects for Multimedia Volume 2, your students can make it seem as though they were recorded live at a busy intersection.

Using our Music Loops for Multimedia disk, your students can liven up their multimedia projects with background music. Imagine a multimedia presentation on American History set to the music of the national anthem. We have music for quizzes, drum rolls to build excitement, and trumpet loops for big announcements. These music loops can play in the background or be mixed in with the students' own voices. The possibilities are endless!

Each CD-ROM contains a browser program that make finding the right sound effect quick and easy. The browser program even automates the process of copying the sounds to your computer hard disk. The CD-ROMs are hybrid for Macintosh and Windows 95. The sound files are stored on the disks in both AIFF format for Macintosh users and WAVE format for Windows computer users.
