Overview

Idiot is a solitaire card game. The playing area is divided into two main regions: the four piles of cards located at the top of the playing area and the deck located in the top-left corner of the playing area. The object of the game is to remove all the cards from the piles.

You can remove any card from the top of a pile if its rank is lower and the same suit as a card on top of another pile. For example, you can remove a 10 of Hearts if any of the top cards in another pile are Hearts and higher than 10. The Aces count as the highest cards.

If there is an empty pile, you may move any of the top cards of the other piles to that location.

When no cards are removable you have to deal new cards from the deck.

Play ends when all cards are dealt and you can not remove any cards from the piles.

Rules of the Game

Idiot has two game areas:

The deck in the top-left corner of the playing area.
Four piles of cards at the top of the playing area.

The game begins with the first four card in the deck faceup on the piles. You can remove the top card from any of the four piles if it is lower in rank and the same suit as a card on top of an other pile. Aces count as the highest cards in the deck.

If there is an empty pile, you may move any of the top cards of the other piles to that location.

The game is over when all cards have been dealt from the deck and no more cards can be removed from the piles.
