

Nuke-it! Information

About Nuke-it!:

Nuke-it! provides an easy and fun Windows Trash can for deleting files. You just drag the files from Windows file manager to the Nuke-it! icon and watch your files go up in flames.

How to install:

In File Manager, double-Click on setup.exe or under File Run type "setup.exe". The Setup program will then ask for a directory to install Nuke-it!...Any place will do. Thats it...Enough said...

How to use:

First, have Nuke-it! running as an icon, we suggest you add it to your startup group so it's always there when you need it. Then select the files/directory you wish to delete (burn!!!) from the Windows File Manager and drag them to the Nuke-it! icon. (You can drag multiple files and even a directory, if the directory has no sub-directories.)

Warning!!!

Files dragged to Nuke-it! are deleted then and there. If you make a mistake, you'll have to undelete the file using DOS's or some other undelete utility. Basically, you drag it there, it's Nuked!

How to Register (hint! hint!):

When Nuke-it! deletes a file, an irritating nag screen appears...You may ignore this, and run Nuke-it! by clicking on "Continue Unregistered", or you can be a really great person and support our efforts and click on "Registration Info". Windows Write will come up and display the registration info. Simply fill in the blanks and print the file normally, mail it off with the registration fee, and we will send you a copy WITHOUT that nag screen...OK?
