

Summary

The size of RAM could not be determined. The error indicates a hardware problem.

Details

The main circuit board of your Mac Portable contains main memory chips called RAM that store information as you use your system. Normally, each RAM chip informs the computer (when asked) about how big it is. One of your RAM chips failed to answer this question.

What to do

You will have to replace the bad RAM chip.