

CED Lecca presents ...

Briscola! version 1.5!

Rome, 14/2/1997.

This is the Shareware version of Briscola for the Apple Macintosh...

and do not forget to play Scopa as well!

The Shareware version offers only one AI level: "Stupid", who chooses the cards in a completely random fashion ... Nonetheless, the game is not trivial because the computer has a 33% probability of choosing the best card...

The complete version, with 2 more levels of intelligence, costs only $10.

To have it, you can send the money to:

CED Lecca

Viale Tirreno 187 A/9

00141 - Rome - Italy

But if you are not in Italy, you'd better like to use the "Register" program that you find with the game.. The payment service is run by Kagi Shareware, for more information consult the file "How to Register".

You can find updates to the program in the FTP area of Video On Line (an Italian Provider) at the URL <http://www.volftp.vol.it/IT/IT/ITALIANI/LECCA/index.htm> or on Info-Mac mirrors.

For comments, information and suggestions feel free to write to the address above or by e-mail at the following addresses:

- cedlecca@kagi.com or
- lecca@dsi.uniroma1.it

WARNING: If the cards are too light for your screen, try adjusting the gamma of your screen with the Monitors Control Panel.... (if the gamma does not appear, hold Option while choosing the Options button).
