I wanted to drop a note to say I really enjoy the images you have been running. Most are to my taste; some of the white-water ones on Vol. 3-6 are breathtaking, and I have enjoyed many in the past issues.

I think an assortment of wildlife would be very popular, also. And perhaps vintage military aircraft. I think this would provide a nice contrast between the technology Nautilus subscribers share.

From the Nautilus Team:

Thanks for these ideas. While we don't currently have animal images in the Photography section, you'll find video from the Columbus Zoo in the Education section this month and last regarding animals of Australia. Over the next few issues we'll bring you video and images from the Zoo about Big Cats.

As for the military aircraft, we'd be happy to consider images from subscribers who have these types of photos. The Nautilus Services section provides information on how to publish here.
