FontShow for Windows 95/NT is a small program useful for viewing the TrueType fonts installed on your system. Options are included to display user-specified sample text in place of the normal font name and alphanumeric character set. The size and face of the currently selected font can be quickly changed and the results displayed automatically.

The selected font's metrics can be viewed in a small font properties window by simply double-clicking on the font name in the pick list. MS Windows stock font objects can also be displayed with this utility, making it handy for programmers and developers.

FontShow for Windows 95/NT can be configured to optionally place its program icon in the taskbar notification tray. You can run multiple instances of FontShow to easily compare different font choices.

If you have comments, questions or find any bugs please feel free to contact me on CompuServe or America Online.

If you would like to be notified when this application is upgraded send me a message with your on-line address. I'll send you email when a new version is uploaded to CompuServe and AOL.

While this program is offered as Freeware, if you feel that you want to pay something for it you are welcome to send any amount you wish to the address below.
