1.2 Author

Just some dull stuff:

I'm a 22 year old Finnish freelance reporter (and surprisingly concentrating on football ;)). I'm a football/SWOS/Amiga/C64 enthusiast, as you can see.

Anyway I haven't been quite productive on computerside in past years.

Practically this guide and Guide to the European Championships are my only projects that have consumed some time not to mention Guide to the Formula One Championships.

The computer setup used to produce this masterpiece:

Hardware:

Amiga 1200T (Infinitiv tower)

Blizzard 603e 200 MHz/68040 25 MHz

66 Mb Ram

3,2 Gb HD

24xCD Rom

14" Multisync Monitor

Software:

CygnusEd v4

1.3 Thanks

Thanks go to...

- Peter Fischer (fixing German letters + some gameresults and now he is the uploader of this program. You have really been big help so far!)
- A. Nieuwenhuizen (correcting some Dutch data)
- Marcus Stratmann (correcting a few German playernames)
- Meni Berman (correcting a nasty misspelling)
- Dr. Hyde (introducing me Amiga in firstplace!)
- Di-Mension/BFB (if he hadn't shown me how to upload files to Aminet on Autumn'97, this program probably wouldn't exist in Aminet at all)

I would also like to thank everyone, who has bothered to mail me comments etc.

1.4 Registration

This guide is actually freeware, so you don't have to pay me anything if you don't want to. But of course paying is not prohibited!

1.5 Instructions

You should already know how to browse Amiga Guide-documents, so I don't put any insane text here.

First click "Start here" to reach the index table of World Cups.

There you see the tournament year, host and medalists of that tournament.

Clicking the year (example 1930) You'll see the playing system,scores,groups,best goalscorers of that tournament and all the teams.

When you click a team (example Argentina) then you'll get a namelist of that team and the goals they've scored.

Clicking the match (example FRA-MEX 4-1) will reveal the scorers of that game.

Clicking the host (example Uruguay) You'll get some statistics of that tournament (goals scored, spectators etc.)

Clicking the medalists you simply get the namelist of that team plus the goals they've scored.

1.6 History

This project has really lasted a long time.. From time to time I lost my interests towards this guide as it took so lots of time to do.

I might have made this guide in a better way, but I wanted to put it fast (hah!) together.

I started this project because I wasn't able to get my hands on any soccer-related CD-Roms available for Amiga. Now there seems to be History of the World Cup but I haven't still bought it.

On a different view, I have read lots and lots of World Cup books and practically every book has more or less wrong and on some cases stupidly wrong statistics.

So my aim is to make this guide a 100 % perfect statistic package.

It's hard and probably impossible to make such a thing but the show still goes on and on and on...

* Corrected one playername into its right team

* Made a big missing-list

1.7 future

Waiting for next World Cup which will be held in both Japan and South Korea in the year 2002... In future I'll be just fixing playerdatas etc. I don't think there's a lot other things to do for this guide anyway.

Still causing headache,

- A big bunch of penalty-goals missing

- "Most tournaments joined" -section might still have errors on some new players
 - Some names with "ø" & "æ" letters might be incorrect (Mainly Danish and Norwegian player names)
