1.2 Crusade > War Zone [#1]

War Zone [#1] (1998)

Matthew Gideon is the newly-commissioned captain of the Excalibur, a ship that will carry the quest to save the Earth to the farthest reaches of the galaxy. But he hardly has time to meet his crew before he's called to recover a downed Drakh vessel which just may be one of the ships that poisoned Earth.

Meanwhile, Interplanetary Expeditions Max Eilerson finds himself in the wrong place at the wrong time, as his archaeological find of a lifetime becomes the stage for a battle between the Excalibur crew and a band of grounded Drakh.

1.8 Crusade > The Rules Of The Game [#7]

The Rules Of The Game [#7] (1999)

Gideon arrives on Babylon 5 to negotiate for the rights to land on the Lorkan homeworld. But the Lorkan's consider themselves morally superior to their galactic neighbours and see humans as an unwanted taint in the perfect picture they themselves present. When Gideon's determination persists, a pair of devout Lorkans seek a more permanent end to the debates.

Meanwhile, Max Eilerson's ex-wife Cynthia Allen shows up with a request for help. She has borrowed money from the wrong people and now it's up to Eilerson to fix things his own way.
