Location:

Antarctic Region

Area:

total area:

14 million km² (est.)

land area:

14 million km² (est.)

comparative area:

slightly less than 1.5 times the size of the US

note:

second-smallest continent (after Australia)

Land boundaries:

none, but see entry on International disputes

Coastline:

17,968 km

Maritime claims:

none, but see entry on International Disputes

International disputes:

Antarctic Treaty defers claims (see Antarctic Treaty Summary below);

sections (some overlapping) claimed by Argentina, Australia, Chile, France

(Adelie Land), New Zealand (Ross Dependency), Norway (Queen Maud Land), and

UK; the US and most other nations do not recognize the territorial claims ↔

of

other nations and have made no claims themselves (the US and Russia reserve the right to do so); no formal claims have been made in the sector between 90 degrees west and 150 degrees west, where, because of floating ice,

Antarctica is unapproachable from the sea

Climate:

severe low temperatures vary with latitude, elevation, and distance from ↔ ocean; East Antarctica is colder than West Antarctica because of its higher elevation; Antarctic Peninsula has the most moderate climate; higher temperatures occur in January along the coast and average slightly below

freezing

Terrain:

about 98% thick continental ice sheet and 2% barren rock, with average elevations between 2,000 and 4,000 meters; mountain ranges up to 4,897 meters high; ice-free coastal areas include parts of southern Victoria Land ↔

Wilkes Land, the Antarctic Peninsula area, and parts of Ross Island on McMurdo Sound; glaciers form ice shelves along about half of the coastline, and floating ice shelves constitute 11% of the area of the continent

Natural resources:
 none presently exploited; iron ore, chromium, copper, gold, nickel, ← platinum and other minerals, and coal and hydrocarbons have been found in small, uncommercial quantities

Environment:

mostly uninhabitable; katabatic (gravity-driven) winds blow coastward from the high interior; frequent blizzards form near the foot of the plateau; a circumpolar ocean current flows clockwise along the coast as do cyclonic storms that form over the ocean; during summer more solar radiation reaches the surface at the South Pole than is received at the Equator in an equivalent period; in October 1991 it was reported that the ozone shield, which protects the Earth's surface from harmful ultraviolet radiation, had dwindled to the lowest level ever recorded over Antarctica; active ← volcanism on Deception Island and isolated areas of West Antarctica; other seismic activity rare and weak

Note:

the coldest, windiest, highest, and driest continent

Antarctic Treaty Summary:

The Antarctic Treaty, signed on 1 December 1959 and entered into force on ← 23

June 1961, establishes the legal framework for the management of Antarctica ←

Administration is carried out through consultative member meetings--the 17 ← th

Antarctic Treaty Consultative Meeting was in Venice in November 1992.

Currently, there are 41 treaty member nations: 26 consultative and 15 acceding. Consultative (voting) members include the seven nations that ← claim portions of Antarctica as national territory (some claims overlap) and 19 nonclaimant nations. The US and some other nations that have made no claims have reserved the right to do so. The US does not recognize the claims of others. The year in parentheses indicates when an acceding nation was voted to full consultative (voting) status, while no date indicates the country was an original 1959 treaty signatory. Claimant nations are--Argentina, Australia, Chile, France, New Zealand, Norway, and the UK. Nonclaimant consultative nations are--Belgium, Brazil (1983), China (1985), Ecuador (1990), Finland (1989), Germany (1981), India (1983), Italy (1987), Japan, South Korea (1989), Netherlands (1990), Peru (1989), Poland (1977), South Africa, Spain (1988), Sweden (1988), Uruguay (1985), the US, and Russia.

 Acceding (nonvoting) members, with year of accession in parentheses, are--Austria (1987), Bulgaria (1978), Canada (1988), Colombia (1988), Cuba (1984), Czechoslovakia (1962), Denmark (1965), Greece (1987), Guatemala
 (1991), Hungary (1984), North Korea (1987), Papua New Guinea (1981), ←
 Romania
 (1971), Switzerland (1990), and Ukraine (1992).

Article 6:
 includes under the treaty all land and ice shelves south of 60 degrees 00
 minutes south

Article 7:
 treaty-state observers have free access, including aerial observation, to any area and may inspect all stations, installations, and equipment; ← advance notice of all activities and of the introduction of military personnel must be given

Article 8:
 allows for jurisdiction over observers and scientists by their own states

Article 9:
 frequent consultative meetings take place among member nations

Article 10:

treaty states will discourage activities by any country in Antarctica that are contrary to the treaty

Article 11:

disputes to be settled peacefully by the parties concerned or, ultimately, by the ICJ

Article 12, 13, 14:

deal with upholding, interpreting, and amending the treaty among involved nations

Other agreements:

more than 170 recommendations adopted at treaty consultative meetings and ratified by governments include - Agreed Measures for the Conservation of Antarctic Fauna and Flora (1964); Convention for the Conservation of Antarctic Seals (1972); Convention on the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources (1980); a mineral resources agreement was signed in 1988 but was subsequently rejected; in 1991 the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty was signed and awaits ratification; this agreement provides for the protection of the Antarctic environment through five specific annexes on marine pollution, fauna, and flora, environmental impact assessments, waste management, and protected areas; it also ← prohibits all activities relating to mineral resources except scientific research; four parties have ratified Protocol as of June 1993

Legal system:

US law, including certain criminal offenses by or against US nationals, ← such as murder, may apply to areas not under jurisdiction of other countries. Some US laws directly apply to Antarctica. For example, the Antarctic Conservation Act, 16 U.S.C. section 2401 et seq., provides civil and criminal penalties for the following activities, unless authorized by regulation of statute: The taking of native mammals or birds; the introduction of nonindigenous plants and animals; entry into specially protected or scientific areas; the discharge or disposal of pollutants; and the importation into the US of certain items from Antarctica. Violation of the Antarctic Conservation Act carries penalties of up to $10,000 in fines and 1 year in prison. The Departments of Treasury, Commerce, Transportation ← and Interior share enforcement responsibilities. Public Law 95-541, the US Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978, requires expeditions from the US to Antarctica to notify, in advance, the Office of Oceans and Polar Affairs, Room 5801, Department of State, Washington, DC 20520, which reports such plans to other nations as required by the Antarctic Treaty. For more information contact Permit Office, Office of Polar Programs, National Science Foundation, Washington, DC 20550.
