First Degree

Prince Charles' education is worthy of note. As the first heir to have been taught away from the palace, he attended Cheam as a boarder when he was eight years old. However, this wasn't his first experience of schooling because he had previously been enrolled at the Hill House school in Knightsbridge. Later in 1970 Prince Charles was awarded a 2:2 by Trinity College, Cambridge. He was the first heir to the throne to gain a degree.
