How to get the Windows98 default logos reinstalled?

When LogoChanger was started the first time it saved your default logos. If your default logos were Windows98 default logos you can reinstall these logos by pressing the Restore Default Logos Button. Otherwise your logos that were installed before starting LogoChanger will be reinstalled.

If you press the Restore Default Logos Button LogoChanger will save default logos again next time it starts. LogoChanger is also deactivated then, so it doesn't change logos at next Windows start!

How to get Windows98 default logos selected?

First time LogoChanger started it saved the default logos in the "Logos"-Directory in its application path. You can select these three files DefaultLogo.sys, DefaultLogow.sys and DefaultLogos.sys as you would do with any other logo file.

Notice:
   If you had others than the Windows95 default logos installed before LogoChanger started the first time these logos were saved by LogoChanger in the "Logos" directory!
